Good Friday Pilgrims Trace Master's Steps to Calvary

WEATHERMAN SAYS SHOWERS MAY FALL HERE FRIDAY

There will be risk of showers on Good Friday, the weatherman said today. Queen Charlotte Islands reported gale winds and heavy rain today, and the northern tip of Vancouver Island was completely overcast. "Skies will cloud over here tonight," he said. "There may be sunny periods Friday, but showers are a possibility. Temperatures will be between 40 and 52 degrees, and winds will be light."

Ontario Investigating Sub-Standard Cheese

Prosecutor Says Typhoid Deaths Can Result From Unpasteurized Product

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal food inspector today testified in magistrate's court that the food and drugs division is investigating about 150 eastern Ontario cheese manufacturers and jobbers reported to be producing sub-standard Canadian cheddar cheese.

W. R. Moon, health department food and drugs inspector, revealed that the investigation is under way during testimony at the arraignment of Roland S. Scott, 39-year-old Sarsfield, Ont., cheese-maker. Scott pleaded guilty to selling a quantity of cheese which did not meet pasteurization requirements or was not stored for the required 60 days. Magistrate Glenn Strike fined Scott $100 and $27 costs with an alternative of one month in jail. George Addy, special prosecutor for the health department, said that in the past a number of deaths from typhoid fever have been directly attributed to people eating cheese from an unpasteurized source.

Pakistan Claims Red Chinese Tried To Cross Frontier

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Foreign Minister Sir Zafarullah Khan disclosed today that Pakistan has lodged protests with Communist China, charging that Chinese troops attempted several times to cross Pakistan's northern border in Hunza state.

The minister told Parliament that Pakistan troops were reinforced along the frontier as a precautionary measure. "Since then, he added, there have been no incidents. The China-Pakistan border never has been clearly defined in the remote, mountainous Hunza region. India has in the past reported similar disputes with the Chinese along poorly mapped sections of her northern frontier."

Kootenay Blasts May Bring Vigilante Action

Radio-Active Nevada Dust In This Area

Yellow Roof Proves Clay From A-Grounds

Victoria housewives who find themselves sweeping up a strange yellow dust will not need to have it analysed. Chances are that it is radio-active clay blown from Las Vegas, Nevada, by U.S. A-bomb tests.

The dust is harmless, Vancouver housewives have been sweeping the mysterious yellow dust from their doorsteps.

At Seattle, radiation specialists said the dust apparently was carried north on prevailing winds after last Thursday's nuclear explosion in Nevada.

Lewis Dodd, of Yellow Island in the San Juan group, called on University of Washington scientists when his aluminum roof turned yellow. They identified scrapings from the roof as radioactive Nevada clay.

"If it is in the San Juan Islands it must be here too," said John Walker, deputy mines minister. "If anyone finds yellow dust on their roof we would be glad to check it on the Geiger counter in our laboratory."

The Seattle scientists emphasized that the radioactive fission material is harmless. It apparently was carried north by prevailing winds, they said.

Mr. Walker said a delicate instrument would be required to test such material and that its background would have to be examined carefully because "everything is radioactive to a certain extent."

CORONATION REVIEW TO INCLUDE RED SHIP

MOSCOW (AP)—An authoritative diplomatic source said today the British admiralty has invited the Soviet Union to participate in the Coronation naval review and that the Russians have accepted. The informant said the Soviet in replying advised they would send a ship to the naval review but did not specify what type. Western diplomats interpreted this gesture as a considerable contribution to the general atmosphere of conciliation now prevailing.

RED PEACE PLAN GAINS MOMENTUM

UN Command Agrees to Monday Meeting At Panmunjom on POW Exchange

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Western leaders continued to sound words of caution, the Communists delivered to the United Nations command in Korea today their latest proposal for ending the Korean fighting.

The UN command agreed to a meeting at Panmunjom Monday to discuss plans for exchanging sick and wounded prisoners—an article of business Gen. Mark Clark says must be disposed of before resumption of true talks. It was Clark who made the original proposal on the prisoners.

In Washington, officials and Western diplomats saw increasing evidence that Russia's snow-balling peace offensive is a reversal of cold-war tactics aimed at stalling the West's defense build-up and wrecking the anti-Soviet world's unity.

Some authorities say the Russians are running a risk, too. If the Western world maintains its unity it may be able to create a stability which the Soviets will find difficult to upset.

The spotlight remained focused on Korea. More light will be shed on the situation when the prisoner-of-war talks open Monday. If the Reds resort to their customary haggling, the Western world will have grounds for questioning their sincerity.

In addition to events in Korea these were the latest developments in the "surprise-a-day" peace offensive.

United Nations—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky, recently returned from Moscow, for the first time in seven years had no hard words for the West to put into the formal record on the UN's disarmament efforts. This approach surprised Western diplomats but they noted the Soviet move contained no indication the Russians had abandoned their own ideas on how disarmament can be achieved.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned that the Soviet threat against the Western Allies had not diminished by one iota. In a speech at the second anniversary of SHAPE's creation, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander said Soviet Russia has increased and continues to increase its military power.

Blasts Shatter Big Quebec Warehouse

LEVIS, Que. (CP)—A general alarm fire, marked by several explosions, today destroyed a huge warehouse on the Levis waterfront, across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec City.

The blaze caused damage estimated at $400,000. No one was injured.

CROSSWORDS CONTEST

'Wold' Stumped Experts; $50 Puzzle on Page 29

Crossword puzzle experts among Times readers were stumped on the word "wold" in the first puzzle of The Times' new crossword contest. To the definition "could be prize for a forest" hundreds and hundreds answered either "wood" or "wild" but the puzzle composer rules that "wold" more nearly fits the definition. Actually 41 people got "wold" but missed on other clues, so that there was no winner who had the perfect answer. As a result the prize for the second week's puzzle, which appears on page 29, is increased to $50.

Railmen Promise to Take 'Matters in Own Hands'

NELSON, B.C. (BUP)—The men who run the trains threatened to "take matters in their own hands" today unless something is done to halt fresh rail bombings and fire raids allegedly committed by the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

Members of the International Brotherhood of Trainmen held a closed meeting with other citizens' groups in Nelson, B.C., Wednesday night, after which a spokesman said the trainmen were determined to have "something done."

The threat appeared to be clear, although not uttered in so many words—vigilante action.

Three rail dynamitings and a $50,000 sawmill fire touched off what some observers feared was the beginning of a new Doukhobor "insurrection" timed with Premier W. A. C. Bennett's announcement of a June 9 general provincial election.

The Doukhobors were said to be conscious of political influence during an election campaign and may be launching a campaign—a violent one—to stay in Canada without outside influence in their communal form of life. The Douks' objectives, however, were not fully clear.

The trainmen blamed the British Columbia government and the Canadian Pacific Railway for not taking action to protect the workers.

They issued a statement saying "we will announce action we will take in a day or two. In the meantime, we are taking measures to protect ourselves." The railmen were expected to establish armed guards along the tracks.

Extra police were sent to the district earlier. "We are doing everything possible to protect the public," the premier said.

U.K. to Try Pacific Run With Oronsay

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The British-owned Orient Line will make an experimental entry into the Pacific service to Canada and the United States next year, using the 27,632-ton liner Oronsay, latest addition to its fleet, it was announced today.

The only passenger ship now on the run is the 17,486-ton Aorangi, owned by the Canadian-Australian Line. She will be withdrawn this year.

An Orient spokesman said today the Oronsay would make experimental voyages in January and May, 1954. The company will then decide whether to run a Pacific service permanently.

The Oronsay will travel from Sydney to Suva, Honolulu and Vancouver, as the Aorangi has done, and will also call at San Francisco to attract American tourists.

N.Z. Gunner Cited For Coolness in Little Gib. Action

IN KOREA (AP)—Commonwealth division headquarters announced today the award of the Military Medal to Gunner W. L. Clark of the Royal New Zealand Artillery Regiment for valor in a battle at Little Gibraltar March 17.

Clark was cited for "coolness and courage of the highest order." He was credited with evacuating 31 American casualties by making 10 jeep trips for ward voluntarily and under heavy Red artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire. On each trip, the citation said, Clark brought forward much needed supplies and ammunition.

Fairweather Appeal To Be Heard Here

VANCOUVER (CP)—The appeal of Albert Fairweather, convicted of manslaughter in the stabbing death of Raymond Boyce near Duncan, has been transferred to the Victoria sitting of the appeal court opening April 14.

Fairweather, first convicted of murder and sentenced to death, won a new trial at which he was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to 10 years in prison. He then appealed the manslaughter sentence.

Two Mau Mau terrorists were sentenced to be hanged today for murdering a white farmer in a raid last November. The two were members of a Mau Mau band which chopped L. H. Meiklejohn to death with bush knives in a raid on his farm.

NO PAPER GOOD FRIDAY; WEEKEND FEATURES EASTER

Tomorrow, Good Friday, will be observed as a holiday by The Times staff and there will be no regular issue of the paper. The next editions will be on Saturday, which will include the Easter issue of Weekend Picture Magazine. It features an article on the amazing coloring of Easter eggs by Ukrainians, an art they have brought to Canada.

Another outstanding feature in Weekend is a series of animal pictures, taken by famed photographer Nicholas Morant in the Canadian Rockies.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

DOVER AND ABSTRACT ART

FOR some years now my benighted approach to the subject of surrealism and abstractions has been looked upon as heresy by the modernists who long ago decided that art should reject the portrayal of people and things as the ordinary eye sees them, and attempt, instead, to penetrate the exterior veil and interpret their concept of its inner, underlying meanings.

I cheerfully admit my inadequacies in this connection. For mine happens to be the very ordinary sort of eye that looks for—and finds—beauty all around us, and is quite prepared to accept as art any true revelation of that beauty.

OTHER PHILISTINES

Having thus placed myself definitely among the Philistines, I feel ready to acknowledge a certain sympathy with the British M.P.'s who recently revolted against a proposal to erect a modern, semi-abstract sculpture on the famous white cliffs of Dover.

The British Institute of Contemporary Art recently sponsored a competition for a sculpture to be entitled "The Unknown Political Prisoner," and destined to be placed on the Dover cliffs as a monument dedicated to the world's political prisoners.

EX-BLACKSMITH WINNER

Reginald Butler, a former blacksmith, was adjudged the winner of the £4,500 prize. His model, which he himself described as "an iron cage, a transmuted gallows or guillotine, on a large outcrop of rock," is said to look something like a giant, complex TV aerial.

On a recent Sunday the model, which was on view in the Tate Gallery, was smashed by Laszlo Szilvassy, a stateless artist, in protest against what he called a prostitution of art and a defamation of the world's political prisoners. That was the first sign of public reaction to the artist's theme.

PROTEST IN PARLIAMENT

In the meantime, the storm grew and quickly reached the Houses of Parliament, where, despite the mounting problems facing them on the international horizon, no less than 40 M.P.'s, including members of all parties, introduced a motion to keep the cliffs of Dover unsullied.

That is a decision with which many people will be in accord. For it is difficult to see what possible purpose—either artistic or symbolic—could be served by erecting such a monstrosity on that lovely and historic stretch of England's coast. If it is necessary to enter the realm of the abstract to perpetuate the memory of those who have suffered and died for their political beliefs, surely it is to be found in contemplation of those same scarred cliffs from whose foot that historic armada of little boats set out on its never-to-be-forgotten mission to Dunkirk.

COVENTRY CATHEDRAL

And while on the subject of modern art, it is interesting to note the furor that has also been created in Britain by the new design for Coventry Cathedral. That ancient and lovely edifice, which suffered almost complete destruction during the blitz, is to be replaced by an ultra-modern building that embodies all the "functional" features of ultra-modern design that one associates with a movie theatre. And the feeling of architectural nightmare which the model inspired in traditionalists like me is heightened by the fact that the new cathedral is to be "integrated" into what is left of the centuries-old structure. To me it seems almost like sacrilege.

800-YEAR-OLD CUSTOM

Mourning Queen Observes Age-Old Maundy Ceremony

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen distributed purses full of money to 49 representatives of London's aged poor today in a centuries-old Easter-time ceremony of royal humility.

The Queen was dressed in mourning for her first public engagement since the death of her grandmother, Queen Mary. The event was held in state St. Paul's Cathedral because Westminster Abbey, the traditional site, is closed in preparation for the Coronation.

Old men and women bowed as the Queen handed them the purses containing specially-minted Maundy money, which for the first time this year bore the imprint of her head.

This age-old annual ceremony of penance and charity dates back to the 12th century when British monarchs, on the day before Good Friday, washed the feet of the poor after the example of Christ with his disciples.

Washing of the feet was discontinued in 1686. But, symbolically, royal officials in colorful uniforms walked behind the Queen today carrying towels.

Moscow Radio Says Vatican Preaches War

Bitter New Attack Lashes Holy See

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio today loosed a bitter new attack against the Vatican and accused it of preaching "atomic and germ warfare."

The broadcast was in sharp contrast to recent peace sounds emanating from the Russian capital. It indicated that whatever else may happen the Kremlin plans no letup in its war against the Catholic church.

Quoting a pre-Easter article by academician Tatie in the Soviet New Times, Moscow radio said a revised code of international morals grants "Vatican indulgence to imperialist sinners."

"There can be no doubt," it added, "the masses of believing Catholics and all honest members of the Catholic clergy will reject the sermon of war, mass murder, plunder of nations, the deprivation of sovereignty and national property of underdeveloped countries and of atomic and germ war preached by the code."

The broadcast did not identify the code other than to say it was "compiled by the Holy Fathers."

Japan, U.S. Friendship Pact Signed

TOKYO (AP)—Japan and the United States today signed a new treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation.

It restores full commercial and friendly relations between the two powers—for the first time since the late President Roosevelt abrogated an earlier treaty in 1939 in an effort to halt Japanese aggression.

The treaty's main object is to list detailed rules for protecting each country's private citizens, business companies and businessmen, and merchant shipping and seamen in the territory of the other.

It also is designed to pave the way for the entry of American private capital into Japan. The treaty will have to be ratified by the U.S. Senate and both Houses of the Japanese Diet.

CITY STUDENTS ASSURED OF TRIP TO CORONATION

A fund to send two Greater Victoria high school students to the Coronation, June 2, is over the top. J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools and chairman of the fund committee, said today the fund stood at $2,031 this morning and no more donations are required.

"The fund is now closed," he said. "I am very happy that we have reached the $2,000 objective and final arrangements can now be made," he said.

FIVE SLAYINGS 'TOO BAD'

Confessed Killer Spurns Dad's Help

DUBUQUE, Ia. (AP)—A handsome 18-year-old AWL marine today faced murder charges in three states after rejecting the efforts of his grieving father to help him.

Fred E. McManus, who shrugged off five slayings as "too bad," flatly told his father, Mose McManus, Valley Stream, N.Y., brewery executive, he did not want the help of the lawyer the elder McManus had retained to defend him.

The father flew into Dubuque from New York and had a brief interview with his son last night in the Dubuque county jail.

During the 15-minute meeting a deputy sheriff who was present, said young McManus wept when his father made a reference to the girl who accompanied the boy on a four-day cross country crime spree.

"I don't want you to spend any money on me," he said. "I know what I've done, and I know what I want to do. I want to get it over with quickly now."

The elder McManus said later: "I simply cannot understand it. The boy has never been in trouble before, and has never caused trouble of any kind."

Young McManus has written and signed a statement admitting a car-theft killing at Rochester, N.Y., last Friday and double killings in holdup at Ken

Foul Bay Nursing Home Draws Protest

Charles Heisterman and 16 other residents of Foul Bay Road near Margaret Jenkins School petitioned the city Wednesday protesting proposed establishment of nursing home at 550 Foul Bay Road.

Wayside House, 413 Vancouver, a nursing home operated for persons believing in Christian Science doctrines of healing, asked the city for permission to move to the Foul Bay site and establish a nursing home there.

City Council gave its approval.

The petitioners wrote: "This is the last remaining area in Victoria with any appreciable amount of vacant land for new homes" and a nursing home would "detract materially from the desirability of the district for residential purposes. It would injure the value of our property."

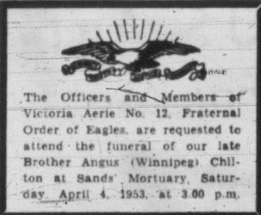

Britain to Stand by Ban On Goods to Reds

LONDON (AP)—Britain served notice today it will not ease its ban on exports of strategic goods behind the Iron Curtain despite recent dickerings by Communist China.

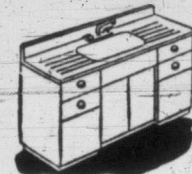

Peter Thorneycroft, president of the board of trade, told the House of Commons that "circumstances have not changed so dramatically as to warrant a substantial alteration" in Britain's strategic controls.

He turned down a suggestion by Harold Wilson, former Labor president of the board of trade, that a revision in the list of controlled exports was "long overdue."

Wilson said Britain should "take a leaf from Ceylon's book and consider exports to

JAILED JP WANTS TO HOLD COURT IN CELL

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP)—A justice of the peace was denied permission Wednesday to conduct his business from a jail cell.

Justice of the Peace Ed Femyer asked Sheriff W. Pete Anthony to pick up his court docket, saying he needed the records and was unable to get them himself.

"I do not believe the county jail is the place for a justice of peace court," Sheriff Anthony said in refusing.

Femyer, 48, was sentenced to a 15-day jail term for drunken driving.

Liberal Body Reported Split

VANCOUVER (UP)—The 3,000-member Vancouver Liberal Association is reportedly split wide open.

A new group led by Angela Branca, prominent Vancouver lawyer, has organized as the Vancouver Centre Federal Liberal Association. A spokesman said the new group, originally organized to function in the federal field, will go into the provincial field and name candidates in the coming June election.

The new group is said to have opposed nomination of Gordon Wismer and Mrs. Anna Spratt at the last election. It is rumored it may seek the association's charter.

Vancouver Centre president Ralph Goodman would make no statement about the situation yesterday.

Britain Ready To Honor Sudan Pact, Says Lloyd

LONDON (AP)—Britain will honor the British-Egyptian agreement on Sudanese independence "in the spirit and the letter," the minister of state, Selwyn Lloyd, told the House of Commons today.

But, he added, Egyptian interference in the Sudanese election and Egyptian propaganda against the Sudanese administration could cause the agreement to break down. Lloyd, who is chief foreign affairs deputy to Foreign Secretary Eden, reported to the House on his recent visit to the Sudan and Egypt.

Egyptian officials repeatedly have criticized the way Britain is handling the preparations for Sudan's first general election.

IN DEEP DEVOTION

'Mount of Olives' True to Spirit

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Wednesday night's presentation by the Arion Chorus and assisting artists will, in all likelihood, remain a memorable feature of the male voice choir's 61st year. Certainly no more fitting salute to the Easter season could be made than by performing Beethoven's compactly beautiful oratorio, "Mount of Olives."

This formed the principal part of a program given at Metropolitan United Church and sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society.

The whole work, consisting of 15 numbers, was approached in a spirit of deep devotion and the achievement of the chorus and soloists, Vera Barclay, Harry Johns and Dudley Wicket, remained true, to this spirit throughout.

MOVING PASSION

The moving passion and beauty of the arias and recitatives Beethoven has written for the Christ part were fully realized by Mr. Wicket.

"Praise the Redeemer's Goodness" revealed the lovely qualities of Vera Barclay's voice and the skillful use she makes of it. Dr. T. H. Johns has not only a basso of fine timbre and sympathetic quality but he is consistently at home in the rendering of great music. His solo, "Penitence" by Beethoven, sung during the preliminary part of the program, was intensely satisfying.

$10,000 Gift Spurs Canvass For Cathedral

Christ Church Completion Drive Gets Under Way Today

Campaign to complete Christ Church Cathedral got away to a flying start today with a donation of $10,000 from R. H. B. Ker, prominent city business man.

Immediate target of the drive is $250,000—the amount estimated to complete the West front towers, facing on Quadra Street—with a long-range objective of $750,000.

Today "special names" canvass began, following publication of a commemorative brochure called "The Story of the Cathedral" which has been mailed to parishioners.

The general canvass of the parish will begin April 15, the day following a special Synod meeting and service.

At this service, principal speaker will be Bishop Steven Bayne of Olympia, Wash.

Bishop Bayne was featured in the March 23 issue of Time magazine as a pastor who makes "600 speeches a year over a 24,531-square-mile area reaching from the Cascades to the Pacific."

Arrangements are being made to have Bishop Bayne's address broadcast.

Labor, Liberal MP's Ask for Higher Pay

LONDON (UP)—A group of British Labor and Liberal members of parliament have asked Prime Minister Winston Churchill to back up their request for an increase of their $2,800-a-year salary.

The MPs said that lacking any other income it was impossible to live on their present salaries and pay the expenses of their offices.

Addressing special names canvassers Wednesday, Dean P. R. Beattie of the cathedral said: "It is indispensable that we go forward now."

Tuesday's memorial service to Queen Mary demonstrated that Christ Church Cathedral is the focus of community worship and aspiration in Victoria. Friends of all faiths are praying for the success of our building project.

Up-Island parishes have set a target of $100,000 in the drive.

SASKATCHEWAN KICKBACK PROBE

Rawluk Prejudiced Says Douglas

REGINA (CP)—In a stormy sitting of the Saskatchewan Crown corporation committee's investigation into alleged kickbacks of government insurance commissions, Premier Douglas suggested Wednesday night the chief witness was "either prejudiced or suffering from delusions of persecution."

The premier referred to J. O. Rawluk, who charged in an affidavit that his firm, Financial Agencies Ltd., paid commission kickbacks to Provincial Secretary C. M. Fines and M. F. Allure, general manager of the Saskatchewan government insurance office.

Dr. M. C. Shumfater, QC, one of those named as party to the kickback arrangements, testified Wednesday night that he was in Europe last summer when he was alleged to have made "threatening telephone calls" to Mr. and Mrs. Rawluk. Previous testimony by Mr. Rawluk which said he and his wife received the calls starting June 4 and continuing through the summer was read.

Premier Douglas suggested it might be time for the committee to start preparing its report in light of Dr. Shumfater's evidence. He said the committee should pause to consider its next step and suggest the time had come to put Mr. Rawluk on the stand to make a statutory declaration. The committee then should report to the legislature and decide what documents should go to the attorney-general's department for action.

Let's Get This Straight

IN APPOINTING MR. CARL GOLDENBERG to represent the province in financial negotiations with Ottawa, British Columbia has chosen a man who is familiar with the problems involved. It is to be hoped, however, that he will not be sent to confer with the federal government with any arguments based on such a flimsy premise as that advanced yesterday by Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

Mr. Gunderson is reported as bringing up the old but discredited sectional complaint that whereas British Columbia receives only $40 millions from Ottawa as its share of income taxes collected here, the federal government takes $260 millions out of the province.

Mr. Goldenberg surely will recognize this argument for what it is—a specious appeal to parochial prejudices that will not stand the light of analysis.

Ottawa does not "take money from British Columbia." It levies taxes on that part of Canada lying between the Rocky Mountains and the shore of the Pacific—taxes that are paid, not by British Columbians as such, but by Canadians who contribute to the operation and financial expenses of their nation.

To say that every section of Canada must receive back from the federal taxing authority exactly the same amount that is derived from it in taxes is to destroy the whole concept of Confederation. It would reduce Canada to a collection of isolated economic units in which common progress would be impossible and joint economic effort non-existent.

Where would national defense and welfare expenditures—the two largest items in the Canadian budget—stand under such conditions?

Each part of Canada contributes to the general coffers, as its wealth permits. It is the responsibility of the federal government to spend that money in the best interests of Canada, whether this may take the form of a prairie drainage project or a seacoast harbor improvement, whether it affects plains or mountains, agricultural or manufacturing areas. Such a trust could not be discharged by returning to each taxation area the moneys it had provided, whether such returns were in the form of tangible expenditures or agreed-upon shares.

As Mr. Stuart Garson, the federal minister of justice, pointed out in a speech this week, actual payment of returnable tax revenues to the provinces is calculated on two basic principles. First is the principle of fiscal need and the desirability of maintaining throughout Canada a uniform minimum of essential government services.

Second is a recognition of the differences between the various provinces and the tax potential which they surrender by entering into a tax rental agreement. The federal government tries to ensure, says Mr. Garson, that it may never be claimed that any province suffers as a result of taking part in the agreement.

There may be room from time to time for adjustment in the terms of the federal-provincial agreements, although it will be recalled that Mr. Anscomb's forays against the national capital resulted in technical victories rather than actual increases in allotments. It is for this reason that escalator clauses are included in the agreements so that the natural increase in national production and provincial populations may be considered in subsequent adjustments.

Hamstrung by Defeat

PREMIER BENNETT WILL DO well to note the protest lodged by Harold Winch against any decontrol of milk prices by order-in-council before the next election.

Mr. Winch has drawn to the premier's attention the position in which the latter placed himself and his colleagues when he invited and received defeat on the floor of the legislature. By that vote Mr. Bennett became the head of a collapsed government. The majority of members proved conclusively that the Social Credit government no longer commanded the support required to govern.

That served Social Credit purposes in justifying the dissolution Mr. Bennett wanted. At the same time it deprived him of the moral right to carry out any but non-controversial public business.

The lifting of milk controls is obviously controversial. Discussions in the House and elsewhere establish that point. How, then, can a cabinet clothed only in the robes of a caretaker legitimately effect changes in the existing legislation?

Considerable political capital might be made by a decontrol order which presumably would result in an immediate reduction in the price of milk to consumers, whatever its eventual effects might be. Is the Social Credit administration prepared to lay itself open to the charge of trying to manufacture such political capital? And if it is, can Mr. Bennett justify such action?

Mr. Winch says the premier cannot.

By the process of logic the caretaker cabinet, if it acted on the milk issue, could proceed from that step to others quite contrary to the will of the people—or at least of a controversial nature which should only be taken by the legislature or by a government certain of support from the legislature.

When Mr. Bennett sustained defeat on the floor of the House he admitted his inability to command enough support to govern. Having made that admission he should not proceed with anything but routine business.

Making Friends for Belfast

SEVERAL HUNDRED SAW Queen's University rugby team play Victoria yesterday and through the event enjoyed a closer association with North Ireland.

The young men who flew from Belfast to give British Columbians a greater appreciation of the game have done more than promote rugby. They have created a more personal friendliness between this part of the Commonwealth and their own.

The exhibition they presented was reward enough for those who saw the match. But that was only part of the value of the trip they have made. They brought with them a fun-loving character that has impressed the people of this city and converted into personal appreciation some of the abstracts of fellowship which exist within the family of nations.

Contacts between North Ireland and this part of Canada are all too infrequent. Seldom, if ever, before has an organized group come from that country to visit. It is a happy circumstance which has sent the rugby team to create here the highly favorable impression many of our citizens will henceforth retain of Belfast and of Queen's in particular.

Victoria's Spring Flies East

VICTORIA'S BREATH OF spring went this week to the prairies, Ontario and Quebec. The biggest airlift of daffodils in the city's history was carried by chartered plane to eastern markets.

The incident is important in this region's commercial calendar. It may be vastly more significant in its announcement of climatic and other amenities in this part of Canada.

Elsewhere in the living-rooms of the nation are samples of the gold that covers fields on the southern end of Vancouver Island. True, they represent hard coin to the growers who have produced them. Yet it is pleasant to think that their value is something more than financial.

There is satisfaction in knowing that we share some of our floral riches with less fortunate parts of the country. And if we must note the commercial end of the transaction, we should also take cognizance of the publicity value to this community of such shipments.

Night Life of a Fish

ANYTIME NOW WE'RE EXPECTING radio technicians to wire fishing lines for sound.

A Norwegian manufacturer has produced a new type of commercial lure which attracts fish by means of a light radiating from a hollow sinker. The fish who likes the bright lights gets the hook.

The device is obviously incomplete. It should have vocal accompaniments patterned on the immortal greeting of the late Texas Guinan: "Hello, Sucker."

LOOSE ENDS

A Visit to the Craftsman

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

SOMEWHERE in the Cotswold Hills: The woodcarver's little shop was cluttered equally with shavings, tools and masterpieces. The carver himself was a masterpiece also. He had the face of a saint carved in the oak of a cathedral—the same fine features, the wild mop of hair, the brooding eye. And when he told me of his work the face was illuminated as Michelangelo's must have been before a half-covered chunk of marble.

Hutchison This, alas was one of the last English carvers, the race of wood sculptors who converted the oak of England into a very jungle of wild imagery. The craft, he said, would soon be dead. No young man nowadays would serve him as apprentice when a factory worker could earn six pounds a week. He had learned to carve with his father, whose father and grandfather and their ancestors for 10 centuries had done nothing else. Now the line was finished, the old legacy lost.

EVEN as he talked the carver would not pause in his work. His chisels and gouges continued to bite into the wood for he had much to do that day and would not leave his bench until nearly midnight. Oh yes, said he, the gentry still wanted carving but they wouldn't be able to buy it much longer.

At the moment he was carving a mantel shelf out of white pine from the Pacific coast of America, perhaps from British Columbia—lovely wood, as easily cut as butter—and for his present purpose better than oak.

With all its opulent mass of flowers, fruit and human faces such a mantel could be completed in about two days. He reckoned the exact specifications of the purchaser. In between times he built furniture of any design from heavy Stuart oak to the fine mahoganies of Chippendale.

HE looked up suddenly from the bench and pointed a chisel straight at my eye to emphasize a considered judgment. "I'll mend real old furniture, the genuine stuff," he said, "but don't bring me any of this modern rubbish! I won't touch it, mind, never! People bring it in and I send them away with it. The way the factories turn it out these days! A scandal, I call it. What's the country coming to?"

By his expression as he turned to his work again I judged that the country was coming to no good. But I ventured to suggest that even in this abandoned age he probably enjoyed his work. Enjoy it? Why, he had enjoyed every moment of his life, he had even enjoyed his two world wars as an active soldier, in a fashion which none of your modern factory workers could possibly understand. He ran his gnarled fingers over the half-carved wood and added: "It's all been so damned lovely, if you know what I mean!"

I THOUGHT I knew what he meant when I left his shop and wandered through the nearby churchyard. For there, tucked snugly into the green and neatly-checked quilt of the Cotswold Hills, stood a church, carved by other craftsmen of this same vanishing line. Those men also enjoyed their work. They received little pay but they could not have done such work for any amount of money. They did it because it made them happy, and their happiness issued in a thousand stone chuckles and passing wooden jests throughout the teeming fabric of that church.

There, surely, is the central fact of the Christian religion as rooted in this island from the beginning. It was a religion of happiness and faithful, in its happiness, to its Founder. The Christians who proclaimed their faith in Gothic and studded England with works of imagination as noble as Shakespeare's laughed deep at life and death alike, and they left a testament which we, in our time, can hardly read. Christian England was Merrie England. There could be no conflict in those terms.

THE oaken pulpit of the church, black with age and ashlike ebony from six hundred years of polishing, swarmed with carved figures and a garden of dark foliage. It had been carved by some forgotten ancestor of my friend in the village shop. If he was not an ancestor by blood he belonged to the same family. The two were joined by the unbreakable ties of a craft which knows no time nor change nor any law but beauty.

Those ties are breaking in an age which has no time, knows nothing but change and forgets the meaning of beauty. As I passed down the village street in the dusk the carver was still bent over his bench, the chisel bit surely into the wood and that finely-carved old face was alight with the joy of working. The craftsmen of Norman times, the jolly carvers of Christianity, had left a faithful heir.

Decisions for the President

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

AMONG the biggest news last week was the squalid attack on the President, his Secretary of State and his personal friend and nominee as Ambassador to Moscow, by members of the President's own party in the Senate.

Meanwhile, reports have come in from the grass roots strongly hinting a need for firmer and clearer national leadership. As friendly a publication as Time magazine, in discussing the state of the Administration, has recalled the period in the campaign when Eisenhower was accused of "running like a dry creek." In short, the symptoms that all is not well with the Eisenhower administration are now too obvious to be ignored.

It remains to identify the illness that causes these symptoms. Every doctor must make his own guess. But the most probable diagnosis is that the Eisenhower administration is suffering from a severe case of political indecision, sadly complicated by political inexperience.

The plain truth is that the President and his chief counselors have not yet decided which of the major roads before them will be best for the country. Until they took office, their ideas were clear enough. Stringent economy, a balanced budget, conservatism at home, intelligent boldness abroad, were to be the order of the day.

But when they got to Washington, they soon discovered it was not going to be so simple after all. The failure to find a magic way out of the Korean impasse (which so many Eisenhower voters had been led to expect) was only a preliminary disillusionment.

There is a bigger disillusionment which is still going on. What looked like simple government extravagance in Cleveland or Detroit, is beginning to look like simple self-preservation from the perspectives of the Pentagon, the Treasury and the State Department. Everything ultimately hangs upon the response to this disillusionment.

The root of the trouble is the gigantic cost of national security in all its many forms—armed service appropriations, foreign military and other aid, atomic energy and so on.

The President and the chief men in the Cabinet had somewhat naively, but sincerely, believed that this huge cost could be sufficiently reduced by what they called "cutting out waste." They have found some waste, to be sure. But they have also found that massive savings cannot be achieved without cutting out present or projected fighting power.

In addition, they have found the White House closets crammed with skeletons. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology report from Project Lincoln, that this country will be exposed to air-atomic destruction by the Soviet Union within about two years, is only one of these skeletons.

The Truman administration never really faced up to the meaning of the atomic bomb in Soviet hands. It never decisively tackled such terrible problems as the long-range ballistic missile, which may dominate the world-strategic scene in less than a decade.

For all these reasons, as all the high officials of the Eisenhower administration now freely admit, the strategic situation of the United States is now worse—much worse—than is popularly supposed. Furthermore, it is still deteriorating.

Reversing this grave trend will require additions to the Truman security and defense budget, rather than subtractions from it. But if this necessity is accepted, cherished fiscal policies must be sacrificed. Strong Congressional prejudices must be overcome. A different climate of public opinion must be created.

These are the questions the President, the National Security Council, the Pentagon, the Treasury and the State Department and the Budget Bureau have taken so much time to mull over. The ultimate decision that has to be made is how much national security the country has got to pay for. It is such a grave decision that hordes of special consultants have been summoned to Washington. It is so complex that White House sources say the decision will not be final for another month.

DESTINATION
The Times, Monday, prints that Mr. Bennett stated "I don't know exactly where I will go." A lot of people know where he can go.

What paucity of intelligence to vote him back in again, next election.

"If a person after a few months' study of popular pamphlets declared that he or she had invented a pill that would automatically and mathematically cure all the physical ills of the human body we would regard him or her as a quack, although in times of plague there are plenty of people who will believe . . . The chief attraction of Social Credit for one type of mind is that it gives the lazy and the arrogant an opportunity to pose as experts or social saviors on the subject that is popular at the moment."

RESURRECTION

Re the letter of Philip Holloway in the Times of March 27, may I be permitted to comment? He lauds Bishop Barnes and the analytical scholars who accept modern scientific postulates that certain Biblical records are not history, but legend.

At the moment, the Christian world is observing the Resurrection, without which all Christianity is null and void. "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain."

Science and evolution and Bishop Barnes would flatly reject the Resurrection as a physical impossibility, and in so doing they reject both Christ and the grace of God, upon which our whole Commonwealth is founded.

Apart from the part the Bible plays in the Coronation as "The Book of Royal Law," and the lively Oracles of God, the most valuable thing that the world affords, I would remind Philip that although "Jehovah's Witnesses" are regarded as a strange sect, page Mrs. Grundy, the whole of the Roman Catholic Church wears the funeral black of mourning only until such time as the Son of God returns to the rightful heritage He redeemed by the "grace of God."

We know "Jerusalem" was trodden down; made desolate, for a specific period. That is history too, and Resurrection in the plant world bears eloquent witness to God's "modus operandi."

OMINOUS INDEED!

Mr. Patch's letter published in your paper the other night raised a point which must have escaped many of the electors last year, namely the totalitarian tendencies of the Social Credit "philosophy."

There certainly appears to be a glaring inconsistency in the published aims of the movement. On the one hand you have those happy generalities about individual freedom and human dignity (without which no modern political movement can consider its platform complete) and on the other a system of monetary control which could have no other effect than rigid state supervision of every phase of life.

I do not see how there is to be a reconciliation between these ideas. Social Crediters with whom I have conversed on this subject are full of enthusiasm, but little else. They say that human nature is to be trusted to see that nothing goes wrong. You can trust human nature to be good if you like, but I'm from Missouri.

I cannot forget the title of one of the Alberta Social Credit bills which was disallowed by the Supreme Court of Canada and the Privy Council in 1938. It was "An Act to Provide for the Restriction of the Civil Rights of Certain Persons." Presumably this is the sort of legislation which a federal Social Credit government would introduce. Looks ominous to me.

M. L. TYRWHITT-DRAKE.

918 Government St.

Douglas Disowned It

It would appear that Mr. C. R. Downman ("Sold on Douglas," the Times, March 31) is well trained in the Social Credit technique of evading the issue by using aggressive doubletalk.

Mr. Downman has not denied nor attempted to disprove my statement that Social Credit would lead us into a complete dictatorship. He evades the question by saying that I have not studied Social Credit technique, and wants to measure my right to interpret Social Credit with Mr. Douglas' experience as an engineer.

Mr. Douglas did show some intelligence. I will admit. He showed more intelligence than most of his followers when he stated that his theory could not work in Alberta; that Canada was protected from such a theory by its federal constitution, the finest he had seen so far as its provisions for the safeguarding of civil liberties was concerned.

He also showed the superiority of his mind when he refused to be a party to Alberta's program under Aberhart. No doubt he was as appalled as anyone when Alberta defaulted on her bonds, causing loss of their life savings to many widows and elderly people. He probably cringed with shame when the Alberta Legislature passed "An Act to Provide for the Restriction of the Civil Rights of Certain Persons." "An Act to Ensure the Publication of Accurate News and Information" and other restrictive measures; no doubt he was as pleased as any of us when these bills were declared ultra vires by the Supreme Court of Canada and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

We Conservatives believe that our democratic system permits and encourages the enjoyment by everyone of the highest standard of living possible, we believe in the maximum of civil liberty for each individual under the law; and we assert that a government which has the interests of the people at heart can do no better than follow sound business practice in providing an honest administration. We would fail in our duty if we failed to fight openly any threat or encroachment upon the rights and liberties of any Canadian citizen.

May I say to Mr. Downman that Social Credit theory, whether it be Douglasite, Manningite, Bennettite or any other, cannot stand close scrutiny without revealing itself as tending toward dictatorship and subjection to any people so unfortunate as to come under its heel.

MOTIVE FORCE

The people of Asia want the good things of life; but they also want freedom and justice. The desire for freedom and justice is indeed the powerful motive force behind the revolutions that sweep Asia. Communism does not offer that standard of life. We of the West have it for ourselves and can help Asia attain it. Freedom and justice are indeed our missions in life. If we forget that, we will never receive the verdict of civilization.

NEW SPIRIT

We were nearing a village (in India). As we made a sharp horseshoe turn we came upon a group of school boys—10 to 12 years old—barefooted, torn and patched trousers, coarse shirts. As the car passed they shouted at the top of their lungs: "Jai Hind (Glory to India)." Gandhi's teaching, Nehru's example, the spiritual strength that Bismillah Sen spoke of had somehow reached down to the boys of a remote Indian village. In the fleeting second of my contact with them I felt the spirit that is carrying India through vales of poverty, squalor, and suffering to her trust with destiny.

Two quotations from Justice William O. Douglas in "Strange Lands and Friendly People."

Near Iron Curtain

The first peacetime garrison force in Canada's military history is based at Hannover, Germany, just 40 miles from Communist troops behind the Iron Curtain. Field exercises are held in surrounding districts. Here at Put-los ranges, 175 miles north of Hannover, officers and men of the First Canadian Infantry Battalion hear a lecture on tactics by Lieut.-Col. G. M. C. Sprung of Ottawa, officer commanding. (CP photo.)

HOT WAR VS. COLD WAR

Veteran Correspondent Prefers Korea to German Occupation

For almost 21 years, Bill Ross has been Canadian Press staff correspondent with the Canadian forces in Korea. Now he has spent three weeks with the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany.

"This story is the first of a series in which he compares conditions in Germany with the 27th Canadian Brigade in Korea."

HANNOVER, Germany (CP) — There's a world of difference between the front-line-bunkers of Korea and the bright lights of Hannover. Give me Korea every time.

Canadian soldiers who have sampled both—the 27th brigade in Korea and the 27th in Germany—seem to agree with me. For instance, L. Cpl. Louis Rodrigue of Montreal and Don Russell of London, Ont., Korea veterans now in Hannover.

"We'd rather be back there," Rodrigue said. "The soldier in Korea is treated as an adult. And I'd rather be with a brigade doing a job there than with one pretending there's just as tough a job to do in Germany."

FEELS IN STEP
By and large, my experience is that the Canadian soldier in Korea is happy, accepting the necessary limitations of an active theatre and appreciating what is done for him. He feels in step.

That can't be said of the Canadian soldier in Germany. From talks with 27th brigade commanders, I have a feeling changes will be made to make him happier. But he doesn't feel in step now.

The soldiering, the political and social climates, even the weather are different in Germany and Korea.

Korea has one of the finest climates in the world. Even in the rainy season, Korea has sunshine. In winter, sun follows sleet.

DREARY WINTER
Winter in lower Saxony, of which Hannover is the chief city, is dank, dreary and dismal. Day after day brings cloud and mist.

"By actual count, we've had 18 hours of sunlight since November," a colonel told me in late March.

The Canadian in Korea lives in a hillside cave and a shooting enemy is at most 1,000 yards away. He works by night and sleeps by day. He has a bath and change of clothes about once a week. He gets to Tokyo for one five-day leave a year. That sounds tough, but there is the accompanying satisfaction of knowing you're doing a job.

The Canadian in Germany lives in centrally-heated barracks. He works from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the "enemy" is 50 miles away, behind the iron curtain. He has hot showers and changes clothes daily, gets three 14-day leaves a year with cheap fares anywhere in Europe. He can get a midnight

BETTER IN KOREA

Soldiers in both theatres get three hot meals daily. Rations are equally good, but I think the meals are better in Korea, even if Danish milk is trucked to the men in Germany every second day.

In both theatres, the Canadians are largely ignored. Japanese occupation and war have reduced Korea to a primitive land of picture-postcard beauty in spring and summer. The words "freedom" and "United Nations" are meaningless to Koreans, who only want to grow their rice in peace. The few who meet the Canadian soldier rapidly win him by simplicity and charm.

War-smashed Hannover is in process of impressive reconstruction. Its people, however, are noted among Germans for their aloofness. They have not got over the defeat of 1945 and still resent the uniform of occupation forces. Associating with a man in uniform makes a German feel self-conscious and conspicuous.

Korea is operational. The 27th Canadian Brigade also functions as an operational unit, but the other North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces try only to do a straightforward garrison job. The Canadian in Germany represents the fact that he is treated differently from the soldier of other NATO countries. They evidence a feeling of frustration.

COMPARE ENTERTAINMENT
The Canadian soldier in Korea is virtually isolated from Canada. He gets Canadian news irregularly, sees the occasional Canadian concert party. In Germany he gets a daily Canadian news broadcast, a daily Canadian feature-type broadcast at noon, but no concert parties. There is a better selection of up-to-date motion pictures in Korea.

All three battalion colonels in Germany said Canadian amenities are needed. One said: "Canada is doing this thing on the cheap."

They said British-run canteens and clubs are available. British authorities lean over backward to provide facilities the Canadians suggest, and that volunteer British women workers do a wonderful job in the canteens.

But Hannover has no place with a Canadian flavor for the Canadian soldier off duty.

Canadians on leave in Tokyo have the Maple Leaf Club to which they can take Japanese or Western girls. There is nothing like that for the soldier in Germany. Except on leave, there is no way for the soldier in Germany to "get away from it all."

Personally, I'm glad to be going back to Korea, to a straight-forward job with soldiers who are soldiering and like it.

Sharp Dope Peddler Nets $30,000 Week

NEW YORK (AP)—A snappily-dressed young man was accused by detectives Tuesday night of wholesaling narcotics by leaving the drugs in dime subway lockers and then peddling the locker keys for $500 each.

Police said the man netted about $30,000 a week. He was charged with possessing and selling heroin.

$3 Million School By-Law Vote in June

Proposed Program Covers 16 Projects To Be Completed By the End of 1954

A $3,000,000 expansion program for elementary schools in Greater Victoria will be put to the electorate in a by-law this June.

The program covers 16 projects and includes new elementary schools in Esquimalt, Marigold, Cedar Hill, Gordon Head and a primary at Lansdowne.

If the by-law is approved by the voters, Greater Victoria School Board hopes to have the entire program completed by the end of 1954.

Officials state the projects are necessary to house the ever-growing elementary school population, some of which is accommodated at present in basement and auditorium classrooms, as well as old wooden annexes.

Announcement that a second building program was under consideration was made a year ago.

It takes on new significance with a report that there were 3,260 more children in Greater Victoria elementary and high schools at Oct. 31, 1952, than at Oct. 31, 1946.

Another 900 students are expected in Sept., 1953, and about the same number in 1954.

Today's increase was forecast in 1950 following a census taken by this department," said J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools. "It has come up to expectations."

This ought to indicate that a second school building program is required particularly at the elementary level.

While a by-law must be put for the full amount of the schools, the provincial government bears $1,500,000 or half the cost, following its approval of plans.

The remaining half is met by Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the rural portion known as View Royal.

The board's first building program, now nearing completion, will have little effect on the growing elementary population, Mr. English said. The new Central Junior High is one of the first program projects.

16 Building Projects Detailed

The 16 projects in the new program are:

1. Esquimalt Elementary: eight-room school.
2. View Royal: four-room addition to existing school.
3. Marigold: eight-room elementary and auditorium to be located on a new site near Jasmine Avenue, east of Marigold Road.
4. Tillicum: six-room addition, thus making auditorium available again.
5. Cloverdale Primary: two or three of the primary annexes to be located on a site in vicinity of McBriar Avenue and Nicholson Street, off Quadra to constitute a primary school.
6. McKenzie Avenue (old): Present main building to remain as primary school.
7. Cedar Hill: Six-room primary near corner of Arrow and Cedar Hill Roads.
8. Gordon Head: Abandonment of present Gordon Head School and new five-room school to be located near San Juan and Tyndall Avenues.
9. Uplands Elementary: Site only. Land to be obtained for future development.
10. Lansdowne Primary: Two or three new primary annexes to be moved to Lansdowne site to constitute a Lansdowne Primary.
11. Willows: Eight-room, two-story addition to eliminate existing three-room annex and basement rooms.
12. Oaklands: Two-story, eight-room addition to eliminate present frame annex.
13. George Jay: Abolish Spring Ridge Primary and build eight-room addition to existing school.
14. F. T. Fairve Vocational-Technical Unit: Expansion.
15. Doncaster School: Four-room addition.
16. New maintenance shops and storage buildings at Kings Road site.

GOLF BALL AND RAINCOATS

Nazi Intelligence Fooled the British

LONDON (CP)—Many British under-cover agents and large quantities of vital supplies were captured on the continent by German occupation forces during the Second World War through discovery of the key to the secret radio codes used in communicating with London.

The disclosure was made by Lt. Col. H. J. Giskes, Hitler's chief of counter-espionage during the war in Belgium, The Netherlands and Northern France.

Up to the end of the summer of 1942 about 30 transmitters were discovered in Belgium alone, Giskes said, to add to an even larger number found in The Netherlands. Most of them had been in regular communication with London for some time.

"It was possible to crack the codes the British were using because many of them were based on the same key book, an anthology of French poetry," the former spy chief declared. "The British did not vary their system enough."

He told of one transmitter near Brussels being used to send

15 DROPS

"The trick worked so well," Giskes said, "that the British made 15 drops to the Germans with weapons and material and also dropped six special agents. We even asked the British to drop things that were short on the continent like tennis balls, golf balls and raincoats."

During the peak of the 1942 drive to arm the resistance forces in the occupied areas, the German security services in two nights had gathered in more than 10 tons of equipment, rations, money and other supplies in response to bogus messages.

By using the captured transmitters and "cracking" the secret codes some 50 Allied spies had been rounded up in The Netherlands and nearly that number in Belgium and Northern France.

British officials in London declined to comment on the general allegations for reasons of security. They admitted, however, that the strange request for tennis and golf balls had led to the discovery that the transmitter in question had fallen into enemy hands.

London Fog Called Worst Pollution Record in History

LONDON (BUP)—The lethal London fog of last December killed 4,000 persons in four days and caused $28,000,000,000 damage to rank as the worst disaster in air pollution history.

The National Smoke Abatement Society said the scale of the disaster dwarfed the industrial smog which struck Donora, Philadelphia, in 1948 and probably equalled the deadly London fogs of 1873 and 1880.

In Donora, 20 persons died and an estimated 7,000 fell ill. If that ratio of deaths to illnesses applied to London, the report said, the city's 4,000 deaths would mean that upwards of one million persons were ill.

HERO ONCE 'DEEMED UNFIT'

$24-a-Week 'Bobbie' Who Got Christie Tells Humdrum Story

LONDON (Reuters)—Tom Ledger, shy policeman who put London's murder squad in the shade, has become a national hero.

Ledger, constable No. 400V to the metropolitan police, arrested John Christie, 55-year-old clerk accused of killing his wife in London's "house of murder" at Notting Hill.

In 24 hours Ledger leaped from the humdrum routine of a policeman's daily life into the headlines.

He has proved again that it is the man on the beat who gets the man, who succeeds where often Scotland Yard detectives fail.

Ledger, 43, was once told by a police promotion board after passing his examination to become a sergeant: "You are staying where you are. You are deemed unfit to wear three stripes."

Now his name will glow among the annals of Scotland Yard. For a week they spread a gigantic police net over Britain in the most sensational man-hunt the country has known since "Jack the Ripper" knifed six prostitutes 65 years ago.

Four strangled women were found—concealed in Christie's house. His wife's body was found under the floor and three others, believed to have been prostitutes, in a wall recess. Bones of at least two more were unearthed in the backyard, Christie, charged with the murder of his wife, was remanded Wednesday for further investigation.

After arresting Christie, Ledger reported to his local station—and then went off duty to dig his garden.

This is what he had to say about the moment his hand fell on the wanted man's shoulder on the Thames embankment at Putney.

"He denied his identity at first, but I recognized him from the description we were given. I knew he was my man."

"I questioned him and told him I was not satisfied with his answers. I ordered him to remove his hat and then I was absolutely sure."

"I suppose it was what you would call a stroke of luck."

To say that Ledger is just another typical British bobby is trite but true. He stands six-foot-three, a lanky muscular man, with a black mustache.

It Depends!

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY DOMINION THEATRE

The Dominion Theatre, now marking its 40th year of bringing topflight entertainment to Victorians, was constructed in 1913 and has remained unchanged except for minor exterior alterations. Along with the Royal, Capitol and Atlas Theatres, the Dominion is operated by the Famous Players Canadian Corporation Ltd., concentrating on first-run pictures with the highest entertainment value.

Early years recall silent films shown in the Dominion, and many old-time Victorians still remember the pipe organ which was removed in 1927 when sound pictures were introduced. Some of the first sound pictures to come to the Dominion were "Jazz Singer" starring the late Al Jolson, and "Broadway Melody," another favorite of the era which pioneered the "talkies."

The first manager of the Dominion was J. M. Robertson, present manager of the Capitol Theatre in this city. He was succeeded by Cliff Denham, now managing the Royal Theatre. Martin W. E. Cave, the present manager of the Dominion, has enjoyed a rewarding career in the motion picture theatre business. His first position was that of doorman at Victoria's Capitol Theatre 26 years ago. Later he was transferred to the Alma Theatre in Vancouver, where he rose to the position of assistant manager and in 1941 was promoted to manager.

From then on, Mr. Cave has held similar posts at the Kerrisdale, Stanley and Dominion Theatres in Vancouver. After a transfer to the Capitol Theatre in Pentecost, which he managed for two and a half years, he was brought back to Victoria's Dominion Theatre in 1947. As a member of the Famous Players 25-Year Club, Mr. Cave was recently honored by the presentation of a gold watch, suitably inscribed.

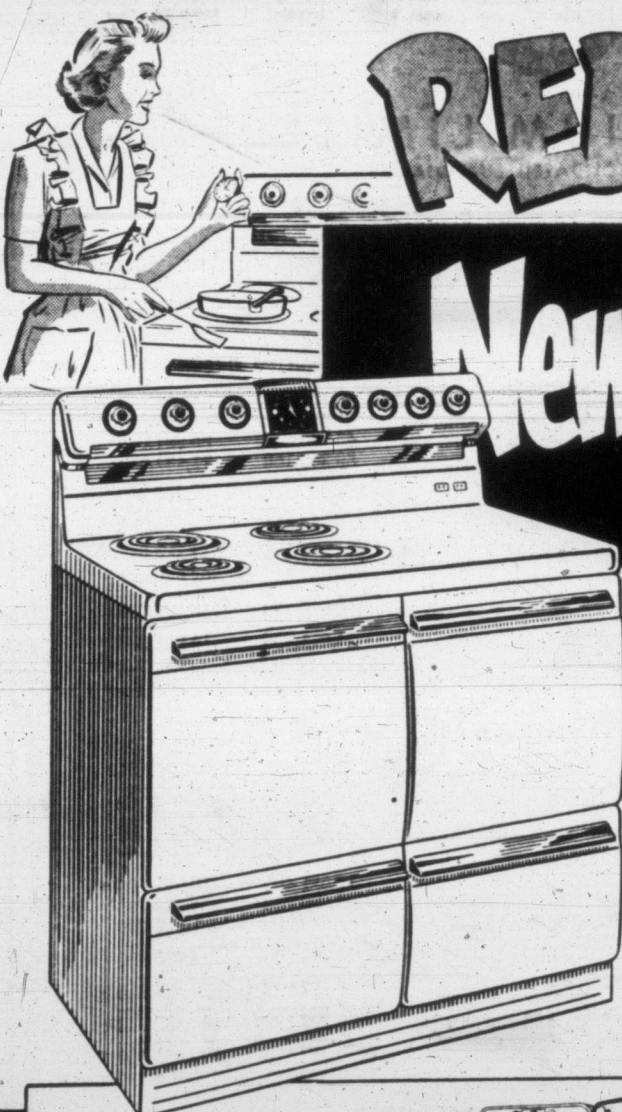

The 40th anniversary of the Dominion is a notable milestone and in celebration of this event, an explosive musical comedy hit makes its debut in Victoria, and a handsome $400 Westinghouse Television Set will be given away.

MARTIN W. E. CAVE

"Call Me Madam" is the screen adaptation of Irving Berlin's musical comedy hit, and is playing in every major city from coast to coast starting Good Friday. Its stellar cast ignites the screen with beauty, music and laughter. Depicted in brilliant Technicolor, the film brings together a distinguished cast headed by Ethel Merman, Broadway's brightest musical comedy star. The film features Donald O'Connor, George Sanders, Vera-Ellen, Billy De Wolfe and many other prominent personalities.

A feast of Irving Berlin's show-stopping tunes will be spread before theatre-going Victorians—"It's a Lovely Day Today," "Something to Dance About," "What Chances Have I With Love" and many more. "Call Me Madam" is only a sample of the top entertainment brought to this city by the management of the Dominion Theatre in past years, and a foretaste of bigger and better productions to come. Future billings include such films as "Niagara," starring Marilyn Monroe; Cecil B. DeMille's "Cleopatra," starring Claudette Colbert, and many more which Mr. Cave is happy to offer to Victoria's motion picture audiences.

More Talks Due On Air Safety Over Germany

BERLIN (AP)—British-Soviet talks on air safety over Germany will probably require five or six meetings to pin down the attitude of each government, informed Allied quarters reported Wednesday.

The talks, inspired by destruction of a British bomber March 12 by Soviet jet fighters, opened Tuesday night at Russian headquarters in East Berlin and lasted until well past midnight. They were resumed today.

Britain made no announcement on the progress of the talks but pointed out that the parley is technical, among air force experts, and at the same time involves government policy attitude on sovereign rights.

Nothing, they indicated, will be made public until the British foreign office gives the word.

The talks to prevent such incidents as the downing of the British plane were proposed by the Russians. This was widely interpreted in the west as part of Moscow's current "peace offensive."

TLC Delegate Dubs School Board Most Anti-Union Group in City

The Greater Victoria School Board was dubbed the most "anti-unionist" group in Victoria, at a meeting of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC) Wednesday.

D. Bushell, a delegate to the meeting, said during union strikes last summer, the board did everything in its power to break the strikes.

Mr. Bushell criticized the school board's action after secretary Percy Rayment had read a letter from school board secretary J. F. K. English asking trade unions to support a school building program.

Mr. English said that there would soon be a critical shortage of school accommodation. They decided that they would ask Mr. English to address a labor council meeting at some future date.

GARDENING SERIES PART III

The concluding article in this year's gardening series, with the third dealing with proper vegetable growing. Gardeners! Get better results from spring planting by following the general hints offered in this issue.

Gardeners!

FOR LUXURIOUS GROWTH—USE

SOIL BUILDER

Unless your soil itself is extremely fertile, ordinary commercial fertilizers can do only a limited job in your garden. Green Valley Soil Builder is designed to rebuild your soil back to its virgin condition—or better. The vital minerals lacking or removed from most soils are replaced in the natural form in which they occur in nature. As well as Phosphate, Nitrogen and Potash, Green Valley Soil Builder contains essential secondary plant foods your soil must have to produce healthy flowers, vegetables, plants, lawns, fruits and berries. Apply Green Valley Soil Builder now, and enjoy a more beautiful, more bountiful garden than you have ever known.

VALGANIC

The Ideal Fertilizer for Lawns, Shrubs, Flowers, Small Fruits

Valganic will not burn. It is organic plant food with no harsh chemicals to harm growing plants. Food is released slowly to plant roots. There is no filler in Valganic. Every granule contains 100% active plant food.

Baseball's Family Inn

Once again "play ball" will be a familiar and often-repeated expression in ball parks throughout Canada and the United States. Among the many struck by early spring baseball fever is WEEKEND Sports Editor Andy O'Brien, who reports on Dodger happenings in Vero Beach.

Who Will Serve the Queen?

In England it is the duty of the Court of Claims and Ritual to decide what ancient and majestic services will be performed by whom at the Coronation. And likewise it is the job of the Coronation Commission to decide who shall be among the 7,900 dignitaries in Westminster Abbey on June 2.

Under-21 Cover Girl

The latest addition to WEEKEND'S Album of Pretty Canadians is Mary Margaret Pendergast of Toronto. The Queen City miss has figure measurements that most models and actresses would envy. A sports car admirer, Mary appears on this week's cover.

I've Got That Movie Madness

In this coming WEEKEND read how movies, particularly underworld thrillers, influence writer Stuart Trueman for two hours after leaving the theatre. Illustrations by Duncan MacPherson.

Animals of the Rockies

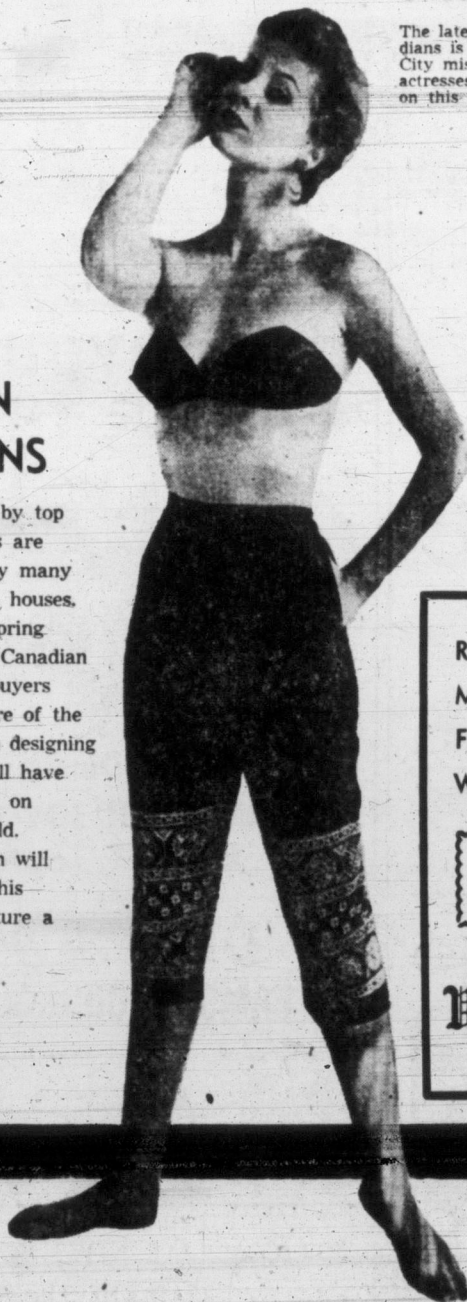

Nicholas Morant, with 20 years of photography behind him, says that a great deal of patience and effort were involved in photographing the Rocky Mountain animals appearing in this issue.

First Haircut

ITALIAN FASHIONS

Elegant clothes by top Italian designers are rivaling those by many famous Parisian houses. At the recent spring fashion parade, Canadian and American buyers were made aware of the fact that Roman designing and tailoring will have a marked effect on the fashion world. Canadian women will want to make this WEEKEND feature a must!

Good Friday Road Jaunt Features Kelowna Flash

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

SONOMA, Calif.—Despite his fine showing at the Portland-Beaver training camp Bill Prior may not be a regular member of the Tyee pitching staff this year.

This peculiar situation one which team manager Cec Garriott certainly does not relish, has come about because of Prior's commitments to his position of business at home. Prior, it has been learned, may have to become the 18th man on the Tyee roster and not a regular starter as Garriott had hoped because of inability to get leave of absence from his position as a pressman with the Provincial Government. And in deference to the big right hander Garriott and general manager Reg Patterson have reluctantly agreed to allow him to return home. It is believed, however, that Prior will be available for all home games and other contests on week-ends to which he will be able to commute without jeopardizing his normal occupation.

Actually Garriott had looked to Prior as a starter this year because of his fine showing on the pennant-winning club last year. Prior was offered two contracts by Portland, both of which he declined to accept and this should give some idea of the esteem in which he is held at the present time.

It's Still Too Early to Worry

It is still three weeks from opening day and although pitching now looms as the key to the Tyees' hopes of repeating last year's success actually there is no need for worry on that score at this time. Pre-season exhibition games especially those of the last few days mean little in the overall picture as Garriott has been giving everyone a chance to display their talent—hidden or otherwise. Several of the rookies here undoubtedly won't be heading north with the club but there may be an uncut diamond or two in the rough and only by actual test under fire will these come to light.

The focal point naturally is the hurling corps with Ben Loring as the ace in hand to go with his 27 victories of last year. Don Hopp, the young right hander, down from Portland, is also a certain bet to remain. And speaking of Portland, the Tyees hope to land either (or both) Frank Chase, with Spokane last year or Dick Waibel who spent part of last season with Tri-City. However, options (three) on both players have been used up and the only way open for the Tyees to acquire their services would be to purchase them from the Beavers. Chase, a member of the Tyees for a brief period in the 1952 season, was a 16-game winner with Spokane last season.

Wisneski Could Be the Surprise

Bill Bottler is also expected to be returned to the local club and if these three possibilities become a fact then what now appears to be a sore point would then in truth be the nucleus of a mound staff comparable to last year's. But the real surprise may yet be found in the person of Bill Wisneski. The young right hander who had more than his share of woes last year appears to have rid himself of his nervousness and is as sharp right now as any hurler in camp—so much so that Garriott, seldom if ever given to the use of optimism, said: "I wouldn't be at all surprised if Wisneski became a 20-game winner this season."

And that, following on the heels of previous statement that the Tyees would finish in the first division is tantamount to a prediction that Garriott is, except for the previously mentioned need of pitching help, quite pleased with his ball club, although he won't come right out and admit it.

Coffee Shop Paddlers Score Stunning Upset

Strathcona Coffee Shop upset wood. 5: Grant Wilson, 3; league leading Skylark Cafe, Gerry Woods, 2. Total 24. 26 games to 24 in the final playoff match at Club Sirocco Tuesday night to capture the 1952-53 Senior "B" Table Tennis Championship.

Gunter (Hank) Smuda won nine games for the winners while Doug Morton copped seven. Best man for the losers was Alan Jones who took eight out of a possible 10 matches.

Robinson's Grocery eliminated Heaney's Cartage from the senior "A" playoffs Monday night by downing them 21-15, to move into the finals against Blue Bird Cafe on Monday.

Individual scores follow: Strathcona Coffee Shop: Gunter Smuda, 9; Doug Morton, 7; Bruce Brown, 5; Betty Yardley, 5; Doreen Evans, Total 26.

YOUNGSTER DIES AFTER HOME RUN

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP)—Ten-year-old Walter Gates fell dead as he crossed home plate Wednesday after walloping a home run in a baseball game.

Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Gates, was playing with his class mates at school.

The parents said death was due to a heart attack caused by excitement and exhaustion. The boy had been suffering from a rheumatic heart condition.

Local Loop May Join With Coast

The Victoria and District Football League was approached at a meeting Wednesday night by Horace Lear, secretary of the Coast Soccer League, on the possibility of joining the "B" section of the Coast League on the same basis as the Vancouver and District circuit are presently operating.

Lear stated that if the local circuit entered, officials would see that there would be no conflict between the two schedules and arrangements would be made in Vancouver.

The winner of the local division would play off against the Vancouver champs, with the winner of that series meeting the last-place team in the "A" section in a promotion and relegation series. As soon as a coast league team is beaten by a "B" squad the series would have an automatic promotion-relegation.

The Coast League pays $100 to the first-place team and $50 to the second.

Lear suggested that the city loop add two more teams to its schedule and then divide the league into two divisions. "If you have one or two outclassed clubs in the league, soccer suffers," he added.

Victoria West manager Doug Gent stated that he was in favor of the proposed move as it would be a step in the right direction. Charlie Lewis and Don Gray, president and secretary of the Victoria league, expressed their enthusiasm of the idea.

Dave Shaw, Esquimalt, suggested that the Victoria teams form a Vancouver Island league with representatives from Duncan, Ladysmith and Nanaimo instead of joining the coast circuit.

Executives of the local league will take the suggestions to the league at a special meeting to be called next week and a decision will probably be made at that time.

Awesome Irish Attack Bewilders Gritty Tide

Queens Score 43-8 Win And Make It Look Easy

By GEOFFREY CONWAY

"Well, it was a nice game to watch... and we watched them!" Such was the comment of one amazed Crimson Tide player who for 80 minutes Wednesday afternoon had been subjected to the absolute rugby wizardry of the touring Queen's University of Belfast team at Athletic Park.

The score was 43-8 for Queens and that was no April Fool joke, despite the fact that Victoria's stalwarts were in the perfect exhausted condition by the conclusion of the contest to receive such a prank. For the visitors' motto seemingly was run—pass—run—kick—run—and this throughout two 40-minute halves.

The 10 tries, five converts, and one penalty gained by the Irish only hinted at the power that the visitors will unleash against the B.C. rep team in Saturday's test match at Athletic Park.

Four of their seven internationals, including the celebrated Jackie Kyle, retired to the sidelines Wednesday to cheer on their companions.

But their replacements came through with five tries and three converts to leave most of the 700 odd spectators curious as to how an international could have turned in a better game.

Standoff Dion Glass, who is only 18 and weighs in at 155, did particularly well as he exhibited amazing speed and perfect ball-handling to continually set up tries for the backfield. Fullback N. Morrison also played an exceptional two-way game as he filled in on many three-line runs and completed a 40-yard try.

McKenzie moved into Gibbs' centre position and sparked some pretty backfield runs that took Tide out of their half for the first time since the opening try.

However, another sustained Irish drive saw team captain James Mathewson go over at left wing, and Henderson boot a 45-yard penalty from dead centre.

Shortly after, the Tide pushed back Queen's to the 10-yard line only to see Cowan break away for a field-length run that Bob Shipley only stopped five yards short of completion with a crushing tackle.

Mill Receives Trophy and Shows Why

Kennedy then closed the first half scoring when he ran 20 yards, was tackled, got up, and covered the remaining 25 yards through the whole Tide team to make the score 25-3.

During the intermission Times publisher Stuart Keate, presented the new John Rowland Memorial Trophy to Jim Mill of Wanderers. As if to show why he won the award Mill sparked the second-half drive that saw Victoria actually convert an even territorial bounds yards short of paydirt. One try was lost to Victoria when the referee didn't play the advantage rule and called MacKenzie back after he had intercepted a forward pass.

Glass immediately got back the five points when he dumfied his way through the defense to set up Maguire who crossed over at the wing. Henderson parrying the posts from a difficult angle.

Henderson added another convert and try. Shipley overhauled Spillard after he broke the length of the field and downed him, and Morrison came up as an extra into the three to cross the line.

The smallest bit of Ireland on the field, Artie Kerr, then snaggled a wild pass and raced 40 yards for the last try which Kenzie pulled off three 50-yard runs only to be knocked out of blow.

SOCCER SCHOOL'S OUT

Last Class Saturday

The last school bell will sound on a happy note Saturday for members of the Dominion Football Association sponsored soccer school.

The kids get out of school Saturday, and before they receive their diplomas they will present a last-day rally at MacDonald Park.

Between eight and 16 teams will participate in a series of games, starting at 9:45 Saturday morning to decide the winner from the various parks where classes have been held during the winter. This will be a chance for the kids to show their instructors just how much they have learned this semester.

The local referees' association has kindly consented to donate its services for the rally.

Sweaters worn by the youngsters have all been donated by the B.C. Football Commission. All players who have registered with the school will receive a free pass for the international game between the Irish rep side and the Victoria All Stars here June 2.

In addition, it is planned to choose two all-star teams from the soccer school to play a short game at half-time of the Irish-Victoria match.

SOFTBALL MEETING

Annual meeting of the Victoria Girls' Softball League will be held tonight at 8 at the residence of Thos. Windwood, 873 Admirals Road. All interested persons are requested to attend.

Seattle Loss Assures Canadian WHL Champ

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Hockey League playoffs will be won by a Canadian team—that much is definite.

Tacoma Rockets didn't make the marathon. And the quarter-final between Vancouver Canucks and Seattle Bombers has gone to Canucks in the fifth and final game, eliminating the only remaining United States hope.

Vancouver took the series three games to two by edging Bombers 5-4 at Vancouver Wednesday night, Seattle making things exciting to the last with two goals in the final minute.

Canucks will meet the winner of the quarterfinal between Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Flyers and they'll know their opponents tonight. Flyers and Stampeders, all square after four games, wind things up at Calgary.

Larry Popein led Canucks with three goals, one each period, and singles were netted by Andy Bathgate and Les Hickey. George Homenuke scored twice for Seattle, Gerry Foley and Rudy Filion adding the others.

The teams matched goals in the first period and Canucks went ahead 4-2 in the second, extending their edge to 5-2 in the third.

With about one and a half minutes remaining Bombers rallied, yanking goalie Bill Brennan for another forward. Goals at 19:23 and 19:45 by Homenuke and Filion wound up the scoring.

Joe Gets No Bouquets— But He Gets Key Goal

Evans Hero
As Merchants
Pad Lead

Merchants 5, Wheelers 4

By DENNY BOYD

They call him a pro, they call him a ringer, they call him all the rest of the nasty names that a large portion of Commercial Hockey League fans reserve just for the Victoria Merchants.

But no matter what else they call him, the fans had to call Joe Evans the guy who saved the old homestead Wednesday night at Memorial Arena as Merchants downed Kerrisdale Wheelers 5-4 to take a two-game lead in the best-of-five series for the B.C. Commercial Hockey championship.

The balding veteran, in the twilight of a long and great hockey career, fired a goal at 15:44 of the third period that gave Merchants a 5-3 lead. Wheeler captain Al Rittinger came back just 24 seconds later with a Kerrisdale goal, but the visitors were unable to overcome Evans' counter.

However, even though they won, Merchants still lost to a serious extent.

HALL INJURED

Rookie goalie George Hall was removed from the game mid-way through the second period after his leg was laid open to the bone by a skate. He was taken to hospital for repairs and it is extremely doubtful that he will see further action this season.

Hall received the injury when Ernie Dougherty scored a goal that tied the game at 2-2. Unable to check his momentum, Dougherty, together with a Merchant forward, slid at top speed into the goal, knocking Hall off his feet.

Regular netminder Ab. Ellis was called out of the stands and the game was held up 10 minutes while he donned Hall's pads.

Earl Peterson shot Wheelers into a one-goal lead at 8:01 of the first period, finding the net with a long lead shot while playing coach Bill Jensen was sitting out an interference penalty.

However, Jensen put his club back in the game at 11:23 when he stick-handled through the entire Kerrisdale team to score with a short backhand.

BROWN GETS TWO

Toby Brown made it 2-1 for the Merchants at 12:11, slapping in his own rebound but Dougherty squared it on the play which side-lined Hall. The Merchant comet, Brown, then sniped his second goal, skating backwards with his back to the Wheeler net but still finding the mark.

Rittinger opened the third period scoring and squared it at 3-3 on Bud Dumont's pass but veteran Norm LaCree, continuing his playoff point spurge, got that one back at 12:59.

Evans dug into the corner and stole the puck away from Wheeler to score unassisted what proved to be the winner. Tempers and the game got a little out of hand in the last few minutes as both clubs doled out some racking body-checks with Dumont drawing a 10-minute misconduct penalty at 18:24.

The third game, and possibly the last, will be at Memorial Arena Friday night at 8:30.

Romance Comes To Gallant Gordie Howe

DETROIT (AP)—Romance has come to Gordie Howe, No. 1 star of Detroit Red Wings, National Hockey League champions.

Pretty Colleen Joffa of Detroit said Wednesday that she and Gordie will wed after the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The date, she indicated, largely depends on how long the Red Wings stay in the playoffs. Right now they are fighting to survive the semifinals with Boston Bruins.

Colleen, who has never been a hockey fan, said she and Gordie met through mutual friends two years ago.

"I think he'll make a wonderful husband," she said. "I couldn't have picked anyone nicer and kinder than Gordie."

Colleen said the marriage will be a simple chapel ceremony at Calvary Presbyterian Church. They will honeymoon in Florida and then visit Howe's home in Saskatoon.

SAN FRANCISCO (BUP)—because he obviously hit Layne with about everything in his repertoire. But the game youngster just would not go all the way to the canvas.

In the sixth round, Charles had Layne down once on his knee and a moment later had him reeling around the ropes. He was ready for the kill. But as the crowd roared, referee Frank Carter stepped in between the two fighters, believing the bell had rung. It hadn't, and they resumed fighting. That may have saved Layne from a knockout.

"He was just standing there with his hands down," Charles said after the fight. "If the referee hadn't stepped in then, I think I could have hit him once more, and it would have been snuffed in the sixth, seventh and 10th rounds that his foe crumpled to his knees. But Layne, one of the gamest boys in the ring today, never went all the way down."

And he always was standing straight up as soon as the count started.

Charles was disappointed that he failed to score a knockout, but he landed resounding blows to Charles' midsection.

PORTLAND LOSES

Granny Belts One But All for Naught

How quickly the fortunes of baseball can change with the swing of a bat was demonstrated dramatically as Los Angeles' Bobby Thibault blasted a triple with the bases loaded Wednesday night.

Glenn Elliott of Portland, one of the Pacific Coast League's ablest southpaws, had two batters out of the way, held a 2-0 lead, and had been complete master of the situation all the way. Two singles and a bunt that couldn't be fielded had loaded the sacks, but Elliott retired the next two batters.

GRANNY HOMERS

Thibault's blow paced the Angels to a 6-2 victory. It was Portland's second straight setback. The Beavers' only runs came in the first as Granville Gladstone, former Victoria Tyee, homered with Jim Russell on second.

Ray Orteig's home run with two on in the tenth gave Seattle a 6-3 win over Oakland and kept the Rainiers in a first place tie with Los Angeles. Orteig, acquired by Seattle from San Francisco, smashed a grand-slam homer the night before to win the ball game.

Seattle was forced into an extra inning when Oakland's Pete Milne poled a homer over the right field wall with Hank Schenz on base. Vern Kindsfather went the distance on the mound for Seattle.

San Diego's rookie infielder Ev Hall, doubled in the eighth to provide the winning run as the Padres dumped Hollywood, 2-1.

San Francisco's Walt Clough and Bob Muncief collaborated to pin a 4-0 setback against Sacramento.

The game at Sacramento produced the season's first triple play. It came in the first inning. Bob Dillinger and Len Attyd had singled for Sacramento and Ed Bockman, trying to hunt, popped to pitcher Clough, who fired to George Vico at first, doubling Attyd.

Vico whipped the ball to Dave Melton at second and Dillinger was tripped. The Seals executed three double plays, also, to squelch all Sacramento rallies.

JOCK SAVES LIFE OF APPRENTICE

MIAMI (AP)—Jockey Robert Louis Stevenson probably saved the life of apprentice jockey William Hasher at Gulfstream Park Wednesday.

It happened early in the one and one-quarter mile eighth race when the reins broke on Hasher's mount, Maudeaux.

Track officials said Stevenson, riding Fudge Beater, grabbed the bridle on Maudeaux and guided the gelding to the finish to keep Hasher from falling.

Fudge Beater finished eighth and Maudeaux ninth in the field of 11. The race was won by Besmere Chick.

New Housing Project Fills Urban Circle

Rowland Heights Subdivision Planners Envision 600-Home Community

Details of the largest housing subdivision ever planned for the Greater Victoria area, featuring three-bedroom homes, were revealed today by a group of city businessmen.

The project, known as Rowland Heights subdivision, fills the one remaining "blank" in the developed urban residential area circling the city.

And to backers of the development, Rowland Heights is "the finest pearl in the necklace."

Group behind the project is headed by J. T. Lambie of the well-known city building firm of T. Lambie & Son Ltd., and Gordon Rolston, house designer and former Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation appraiser.

They envision a community of 600 ranch-style homes with park areas and shopping districts on 130 acres of rolling, treed property in the north-western section of the city.

The acreage, in different shaped adjoining blocks, all is within the two-and-a-half-mile circle.

HIGH LOCATION

It covers a high section off Burnside Road about one-half a mile beyond the Tillicum outdoor theatre.

The new Trans-Canada Highway outlet from Victoria will link it with the city.

Property formerly was included in the pioneer Rowland family farm and was acquired recently from the descendants of Matthias Rowland who settled here in 1850.

First block, on which development has been started, covers 34 acres. It runs northerly from Burnside Road, near Admirals Road intersection.

The block has been subdivided into lots of 70-foot frontage and depths ranging from 110 to 150 feet.

Working on the theory that substantial economies can be made in home building when it is carried out on a mass production basis, three basic plans of ranch-style houses are available for prospective purchasers.

Featured in the house planning is provision for either automatic oil heating or electric "wall panel" heat.

$10,450 BASIC PRICE

The heating "plant" is included in the basic price of $10,450 for the homes which cover a floor area of 1,200 feet.

Financing of the homes can be arranged through various loan agencies. Mortgage details have been worked out by Howard Jones of Fraser Biscoe real estate agency through which enquiries can be made.

The homes can be purchased with some variation caused by income requirements, on a down payment of $2,100 and monthly payments of $65, which cover taxes.

New Ranch-Type Homes for New Community

Three different ranch-type houses already completed on Rowland Heights subdivision will be seen by visitors to "open house" this week-end. Others in various stages of construction will show workmanship and materials used. Latest features in designing have been incorporated in plans specially drawn for new community, which has room for 600 houses on 70-foot lots. Prior to designing of houses, projects in San Francisco, Seattle and Vancouver were visited. A variety of exterior as well as interior finishing is offered in homes planned. Houses are built on water-sealed concrete "basin" to give warmth and dryness. Each house has automatic oil heating or electric "wall panel" type heating. Large windows add to attractiveness of the new houses. Builders leave grounds rough landscaped for owners to complete to their individual tastes. Being on high location, subdivision is well drained, and rich soil should result in garden wonderland.

Open House Set Over Week-End

So that the general public can see the planning of Rowland Heights subdivision and the money-saving mass production type of home being offered, "open house" will be held this Easter holiday week-end.

Visitors will be welcome at the subdivision from 2 to 9 p.m. daily on Good Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Easter Monday.

Guides will be on hand to point out the many features of the project, a "sample" house fully furnished will be open to the public.

For visitors driving to the "open house" from town, easiest route is out Burnside Road from Douglas Street, past the Tillicum outdoor theatre, to Admirals Road.

For bus patrons, a B.C. Electric Burnside-Wilkinson bus will "drop you at the door."

The bus leaves the V.I. Coach Lines depot in town and travels north on Douglas to Burnside, and out Burnside Road.

On Good Friday, Saturday and Monday, the bus leaves the depot on the hour and half-hour. On Sunday it leaves on the hour only.

Functional Home

Savings Made in Mass Production

Changing trends in living habits, building materials and methods of construction have been taken into consideration in the planning of Rowland Heights subdivision homes.

Project Takes Over Old Farm

Victoria's last large housing subdivision covers a section of one of the city's oldest farms.

Rowland Heights subdivision takes the name of the pioneer family which held the property for nearly 100 years.

It was in 1850 that Matthias Rowland arrived on Vancouver Island as a settler. He sailed from England on the famous old Norman Morrison around children's play area.

HIGH BURNSIDE

Fifteen years later he settled on his farm in what is now the high Burnside area of the city.

The Rowland farm at one time covered 500 acres between the Gorge and Swan Lake. The subdivision takes in 150 acres of its highest section.

Two grandchildren of Matthias still live here. They are William A. Rowland and Miss A. M. Rowland.

CAREY ROAD HOME

Their father, Joseph William Rowland, died here three years ago at the age of 90. The family home in latter years was at 3914 Carey Road.

Before he died, Joseph would recall memories of boyhood days on the old farm, when beaver by the hundreds could be seen in the Swan Lake area and you could buy 170 pounds of potatoes for $3.40.

Rowland Avenue which runs between Douglas Street and Carey Road, was named after the family.

Crescent Roads

In the laying-out of Rowland Heights, roads are planned in crescents rather than straight lines, to follow the contour of the land as determined by topographical survey.

As a result, the builders believe they are offering a home which will remain functional in future years.

At the same time, it was found possible to effect savings in construction through elimination of waste in materials and the cutting of man-hours.

In the basic $10,450 three-bedroom home offered, the men behind Rowland Heights believe they have the answer to the young married couple planning a family, and to the elderly couple desiring two bedrooms and a den.

"ACTIVITY ROOM"

The houses, covering 1,200 square feet, all contain an "activity room" connecting the living room and the kitchen.

Conveniently located close to the young housewife's "work area," the activity room can serve as a day nursery or old Norman Morrison around children's play area.

It may be used also for additional dining space or cosy sitting room if the living room already is in use.

Two modern trends in the activity room of Rowland Heights homes are a two-way fireplace co-ordinated with the living room, and French doors opening onto a patio.

Large storage closets are provided throughout the house.

BUILT-IN VANITY

Four-piece bathrooms have built-in vanity tables and large plate mirrors. Colorful plastic tile cover the walls in the bathtub and shower alcove.

Rooms and windows have been planned for furniture placement and lighting.

Provision has been made for modern labor-saving conveniences in a utility room adjoining built-in garages.

In one plan, a television recess is provided for viewing from living room, activity room or dining area.

To allow orderly development during construction, the builder will carry out preliminary landscaping and install concrete curbing on the street front.

The houses are fully insulated.

The Fred Davidsons have the distinction of being Rowland Heights' first occupants. Here Mrs. Davidson with daughters, Sylvia, left, and Penny, show off their attractive living room. There is one of five houses completed. Another occupied, has been purchased by the building superintendent of the subdivision, Gordon Rolston. Their homes are on Lambie Drive, named after Jim Lambie, head of the building company carrying out construction of the project houses. Davidsons are keen boosters of the subdivision. "We wouldn't live anywhere else," says Mrs. Davidson.

Jim Lambie Fourth Generation Builder

The builder of Rowland Heights subdivision homes comes from a long line of successful contractors.

J. T. Lambie, president of T. Lambie & Son, is a fourth generation builder.

Mr. Lambie's father is Thomson Lambie who has been contracting in Victoria since 1918 and who still assumes some of the work of the firm which bears his name.

He came to Canada early in the century and was in Edmonton for a number of years before moving to Victoria.

His father, also Thomson Lambie, was a highly-regarded builder in Scotland and his name is still mentioned in trade papers.

The "Old Country" J. T. (Jim) Lambie's great grandfather, William Stevenson, erected hundreds of the city's is the original contractor in the

Rowland Heights Site Seen as Key to Big Project's Success

The site of Rowland Heights will be developed as its need all are joined under one roof subdivision is expected to be one of the main factors in the success of the project.

Situated high on rolling acreage overlooking the city and northwest section of Saanich, it has park-like glades with towering Douglas fir and gnarled oak.

Most of the subdivision has excellent natural drainage. One low-lying section has been set aside for development as a playground and park.

And for garden-lovers, the soil is "a dream come true."

The subdivision of 150 acres is the last large parcel of land within the city's two-and-one-half-mile circle.

It is close to schools. There are two elementary at close hand as well as a high school. It is possible, too, that a grade school will be built on the subdivision in the near future.

The subdivision is within the B.C. Electric's city tariff district, and there are two bus lines serving the area.

Its Burnside-Admirals Road location is easily accessible. While Burnside Road offers a main route to the city, Admirals provides direct access to the Island Highway, Naval Dockyard and other Esquimalt installations.

Negotiations now are being completed for purchase of right-of-way through the property for the new Island Highway out-let from Victoria.

New Techniques Used in New Housing Subdivision

"Engineered house" of Rowland Heights project takes shape quickly. Because of mass production methods, it is estimated home can be completed in 10 weeks, weather permitting. Here group of carpenters have just finished rear wall of one of the houses under construction, and are lifting it into place. Foreman of carpentry crew of T. Lambie and Son, building contractors doing work, is William "Red" Tytler.

Working on theory that the life of a building largely is dependent upon its foundation, special design has been ordered for base of project houses. In picture, R. Gerth, labor foreman, shows visitor special cement sealed foundation. After leveling house site, three inches of coarse gravel is spread inside concrete base walls. Then three-inch cement seal is applied over gravel. Ventilators fit into cement walls to eliminate possibility of dry rot. The concrete foundation wall extends beyond ends of joist so that house can be placed lower to the ground and to insure a well-sealed area below the floor joist to give warmer floors during winter. Sliding type air vents are used to allow control as weather conditions change.

Insulation Important In Homes

Wall and roof insulation in Rowland Heights subdivision homes have vapor barriers to prevent the condensation of moisture when warm inside air meets cold exterior air.

Every effort has been made to place project houses miles closer to warmer climates through extra care in insulation and heating plant installation.

Homes are equipped to the purchasers' order, with either automatic oil heating units which act in the dual role of air conditioner, or electric wall panel heating systems.

Heat outlets are placed under windows to counteract cold through the glass, the only sections of the walls which cannot be insulated.

HEAT LOSS DISTURBING
It would disturb most homeowners considerably to learn the extent of heat loss in their homes during the winter.

This can best be illustrated by a positive, rather than a negative, example.
For instance, an experiment conducted in heating at the University of Illinois has shown that a room built with walls of a two-foot thickness of cork-board could be kept at a comfortable temperature with a few light bulbs.

Of course this type of insulation is far above the building budget limits of the average home planner, and impractical as well, but at least there are materials on the market which will substantially reduce the rate of heat loss through walls.

ALL LOSE HEAT
The above example indicates that every house will lose heat, the amount depending—for one thing—on how well the house is built. The better a house is built, the smaller the heating system required.

Visitors to Rowland Heights "open house" this week-end will be able to see for themselves pains taken in construction of homes to insure efficient operation of heating plants.

Young Appraiser Sees Dream Come True in Housing Project

Rowland Heights subdivision is the "brainchild" of a young man fully conversant with Greater Victoria's housing needs.

Gordon Rolston who has designed the three basic houses being offered in the project, formerly was Vancouver Island appraiser for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Two years ago Mr. Rolston started work on a plan to mass-produce attractive, low-priced homes containing three bedrooms.

In his job of appraising, he was in daily contact with people seeking their own homes.

"I soon learned," he says, "there was a dearth of three-bedroom accommodation."

The wartime and post-war building boom featured two-bedroom dwellings, and the family with two or more children was on "the forgotten list."

Costs, of course, were to blame. But the young appraiser still felt something could and must be done on a low down payment, long-term NHA loan basis.

His studies of the situation led him to one of the city's most prominent builders, J. T. Lambie.

Mr. Rolston's idea of a large-scale project using economy of mass production appealed to Mr. Lambie and the collecting of a mass of facts and figures started.

Visits were made to various housing projects in other parts of the country, including the United States, and ideas were "borrowed" for incorporation later when the planning reached the drawing board stage.

There were many obstacles, but Mr. Rolston was never discouraged to the point where he considered abandoning the idea. Finally the formula was worked out, and the first foundation was poured.

HOUSE CONSTRUCTION COST QUADRUPLES IN 30 YEARS

Costs of constructing a house in Victoria have increased nearly four times in 30 years.

That's why a $2,600 home in 1920 costs $10,000 today, says Jim Lambie of the T. Lambie and Son Construction Company.

He pointed to a page in an old account book of his father which gave cost details of a two-bedroom house the elder Lambie built just after the end of the First World War.

The house, 1,000 square feet in floor area, cost the buyer $2,600. Carpenters' wages were $4.50 a day. Comparative wages today the younger Lambie argued, are $16.80 a day.

"So you can see why you are paying the higher price."

Their Sights Set on 'Acres of Houses'

Standing on one of 136 lots in first block of 150-acre Rowland Heights subdivision are four men who see the project as the answer to Greater Victoria's housing needs. From left: J. T. Lambie, Gordon Rolston, Fraser Biscoe and Howard Jones. Mr. Lambie, contractor for the houses of the subdivision, and Mr. Rolston, designer and superintendent of construction, are principal backers of the enterprise. Mr. Biscoe and Mr. Jones are looking after the real estate end of the undertaking. Mr. Biscoe of Fraser Biscoe real estate agency, handled the sale of the property for the pioneer Rowland family to the Lambie interests. He then was commissioned by the new owners to assist in the sale of their subdivision lots. Mr. Jones, mortgage broker in the Biscoe firm, has negotiated financing arrangements for prospective buyers. The first streets of the subdivision have been named after the quartette—Lambie Drive, Rolston Crescent, Biscoe Drive and Jones Terrace.

FINANCING OF PROJECT HOMES EXPLAINED

Loans to accommodate prospective home-builders of various financial standings are available in connection with the Rowland Heights subdivision.

First, the conventional lending companies are ready with loans for those who can furnish a substantial down payment; second are the basic National Housing Act loans, for those whose initial payment would be smaller and third, the N.H.A. "Bonus" plan for those requiring a maximum loan.

A competent loan expert is in attendance at Rowland Heights to give detailed advice but a general rule can be set for those contemplating building there under a loan plan.

It may sound complicated but a little figuring with pencil and paper will provide the answer.

To arrive at the amount the builder is allowed to borrow, his gross monthly pay must be multiplied by 23, then $11 being subtracted from the result. The remainder is divided by $6.71, the result of this being the amount of loan permissible.

On a salary of $300 a month, this would work out to $8,640. All loans are applied for through an approved lending company which, in turn joins with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to provide the money under the N.H.A. These are called joint loans because 75 per cent of the money is provided by the lending company and the balance by Central Housing.

For houses in which they participate in the financing, the administrators of the Act require certain standards of building and engage inspectors who periodically check the houses for infractions of these standards. A further check on construction is provided by the lending companies who also have inspectors for the same purpose.

Neither of them enter into any agreement with the building companies. In the case of Rowlands Heights homes, the prospective home-builder is provided with a separate set of specifications and building contract so that the individual himself may engage an independent inspector to see that the terms of the contract are carried out. Homes in Rowlands Heights are priced on a cash basis at $10,450 for a three-bedroom home of 1,200 square feet and $9,050 for a two-bedroom house of 1,000 square feet. In each case the price includes the land. Loans are available on the terms and conditions detailed above, up to $8,240 for the three-bedroom house and up to $7,000 for the two-bedroom house. Monthly payments of principal and interest for each $1,000 of loan are $6.71 for 20 years. The loan, of course, can be reduced by larger monthly payments at the convenience of the borrower.

Smooth Operation Plan of Builders

Rowland Heights subdivision planners have endeavored to cover every emergency to insure smooth operation of the housing development.

Concrete septic tanks of approved specifications are provided despite the fact a sewerage system is in the offing.

As one official put it: "We're not taking chances. Some emergency could arise to postpone the sewerage system, so in stead of shorter-lived cedar plank tanks, we're installing concrete disposal units."

MULCH COVER IS IMPORTANT AT THIS TIME OF YEAR

Best of Soil Needed for New Gardens

What home builder does not dream of a garden some day? But no matter how fond his dreams the reality will depend upon himself and upon the soil in which that garden must grow.

Not everyone is successful in the attempt to grow beautiful flowers or bountiful crops of vegetables. Success invariably depends upon the "good earth," for without a live soil plants just will not thrive.

Soil is a living thing, and if neglected, will once more revert to sand. The old gardener places a great emphasis on the fact that the use of commercial fertilizer alone is not sufficient to revitalize the soil.

For plant life to thrive, four things are absolutely essential: humus, nitrogen, phosphorus and potash—but most important of all is the humus.

In forest land, the surface of the soil is constantly renewed by the fall and decay of leaves, thus building up a "floor" of fertility and richness. It is humus-rich soil of that nature which all gardeners need for their flowers and vegetables.

OPERATES ON CYCLE

The soil operates on a cycle of continuous, natural operations. Under conditions of normal plant life and decay, when crops are neither gathered nor eaten by livestock, the herbage, on dying down and rotting, returns to the soil all those elements which it took from it during life and growth.

In the garden, however, the crops, grown and used for human consumption, return nothing to the soil, but rather take a heavy toll of the soil's natural plant food.

Tests have been made on both light and heavy soils, to compare constant cropping and no manuring with constant cropping and regular manuring. They showed a poor and diminishing fertility in the first case; as against a more than double, and gradually increasing yield on the regularly manured land.

DIG THAT GARDEN

Heavily cropped ground, whether it has been producing flowers or vegetables, needs to be well dug and manured every year. The digging is preferably done in the early spring so that subsequent frosts and rains can help to break down the soil to a fine, easily worked condition.

A good dressing of manure at least once a year is also most essential if one is to produce crops of quick-growing vegetables—the kind that are flavorful, tender and of good size—or flowers that will give you masses of colorful blooms.

DOUBLE FIREPLACE ATTRACTIVE

A double fireplace with openings back and front? Sounds unusual and it is unusual but take it from Mrs. Fred Davidson, it works perfectly, throwing a good heat into both rooms it serves.

Mrs. Davidson should know. She and her family occupy the first Rowland Heights subdivision home in which the double fireplace is featured.

"We thought, at first, it might smoke, but it is just fine and we think it adds a great deal to the attractiveness of our home," she said.

Power Lines at Rear of Homes

Where possible, so-called unsightliness of power and telephone pole lines is reduced to a minimum in Rowland Heights subdivision. They are being installed at the rear of the houses to leave the streets open and the view unobstructed.

Four roads wind through the subdivision in pleasing relief to the monotonous grill subdivision planning of yesteryear.

As lots are sold, other roads will be constructed with cement curbing.

Certain features in the design of the three-bedroom dwellings of the project are interchangeable, giving a wide variety in style, floor plan and finish. In addition to the attractiveness of the homes, and the layout of the subdivision, views of the surrounding country give Mount Baker in the distance on clear days.

Driving time to downtown Victoria from the subdivision is estimated at seven minutes. And the subdivision is within the Gulf of Georgia to the north also is in view with the city power rate and three-cent postal rate area.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I see by yesterday's Letters to the Editor I am nothing but a disgruntled Liberal.

This seems to call for a denial of some sort, but I can't figure out what to deny.

It all depends on the definition of "disgruntled." Disgruntled means "bad humored," and I guess I could deny being bad humored.

I'll have to admit, though, that much of the alleged humor in this space is pretty bad.

Transcript of telephone conversation, early on the morning of April 1st:

Female voice: Is that Monte Roberts?
Me (enthusiastically): I think so.
Voice: Well, can I speak to your dog, Punch?
Me: Punch isn't here right now. Can I take a message?
Voice: Yes, please. Will you tell him they are building a fence around Beacon Hill Park?
Me (surprised): They are? When did this start?
Voice: They are starting today.
Me: (alarmed): Golly, I wonder if they are doing that to keep Punch out?
Voice: No, they are building the fence to keep the trees from leaving.
Me: Oh.

I have often wondered why insurance statistics show married women live, on the average, eight years longer than married men.

Now a clue to the solution has turned up, in the entry list for one of the competitions at next fall's Canadian National Exhibition.

In setting out the rules for the Apron Contest (whatever that is), the remark is made: "Since Canadian men now do 40 per cent of the housework, the apron contest is also open to them."

Pity the poor Canadian male! Slaves all day, over a hot desk, then has to rush home and do 40 per cent of the housework. And his only consolation is, he is allowed to enter the apron contest.

No wonder husbands die young.

Speaking of husbands and wives, I am intrigued by the news story from Illinois, which tells of a husband suing his ex-wife for $1,000 damages.

It appears she stole his kitchen sink.

When she moved out of his house, she left the furniture and silver and china untouched—but yanked out the kitchen sink, damaging the wall and doors in the process.

The gentleman in the case has no idea why his wife became so attached to the kitchen sink.

Probably it was just the right size to pile the dirty dishes in.

A bus driver (who shall be nameless in case he has broken a company regulation) wins this week's award for thoughtfulness.

His bus stopped outside the Post Office, a lady got off, and several passengers got on.

The driver made no move to close the doors, and sat, waiting patiently, while the lady mailed a letter and then returned to the bus.

She offered to drop another dime in the fare box, but he waved it away, airily, and drove on, with the passengers sharing a warm glow of good fellowship.

Any hope of 1953 being a good year for highway safety in the province was shattered during the first month when the number of highway deaths jumped 266.66 per cent.

Eleven people were killed in January highway accidents this year, compared with only three during the same month last year. Number of people injured rose 42.89 per cent, from 408 to 593.

Five separate classes in civil defense were conducted in various parts of Victoria Wednesday night. This is a record for local organizations according to authorities here.

Target zone director L. G. Hatcher, said today that the 123rd class is now under way. Meeting Wednesday were a rescue, Legion of Frontiersmen, Red Cross emergency workers and St. John Ambulance. (2 groups).

Crash With Pole Cost Driver $100; License Lifted

David Edward Richards, 1154 Kings, was fined $100 and given a six-month driver's license suspension by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

He pleaded guilty to dangerous driving after the car he was driving crashed into a telephone pole on the night of March 13.

Richards, most seriously injured, was in hospital for nine days. Five passengers received minor hurts.

Court was told accused car wandered all over the road, skidding and swerving violently before the crash.

W. N. Chant and Ald. J. Donald Smith, both contenders for Social Credit nomination in Victoria, spoke Wednesday night at a Social Credit meeting at Norway House, Hillside Avenue.

Maundy Thursday: Day of Fellowship

This is the fourth in a Holy Week series of articles to appear in The Victoria Daily Times. Felix McKnight, managing editor of The Dallas, Texas, Morning News, is a top-notch U.S. reporter who has won awards for editorial with a religious theme.

THIRTY pieces of silver were to be His doom before the day's end but Jesus of Nazareth, tediously planned Maundy Thursday for last moments of fellowship and prayer with His Disciples.

Not many hours of life remained for Him. He was to be betrayed, given mock trial and crucified before tomorrow's sunset.

So it was His wish that He should gather for the last time His Disciples, but no worldly goods were His and He had no home for such fellowship. He directed two Disciples to go into Jerusalem and follow a man bearing a pitcher and in his home they would dine.

Many men bore pitchers of water from Shiloh on that day but the Disciples followed the first they saw and it was as He said. Arrangements were made.

In the evening Jesus came and sat with His Disciples for the Lord's Supper and the Passover feast. It was the first day of unleavened bread. To prove His love for those He was soon to leave, Jesus stooped and washed the dusty feet of His Disciples. Protests arose but He said:

"Verily, verily I say unto you, a servant is not greater than his Lord; neither one that is sent greater than he that sent him. If ye know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them."

In His sadness He gave them a new commandment:

"Love one another; even as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

And He took the bread and broke it in prayer and gave it to them, saying:

"This is my body which is given for you. This do in remembrance of me."

And He took a cup and gave thanks and handed it to a Disciple:

"Drink ye all of it, for this is my blood of the new covenant which is shed for many."

Great lines furrowed His face and He shocked His Disciples when He said:

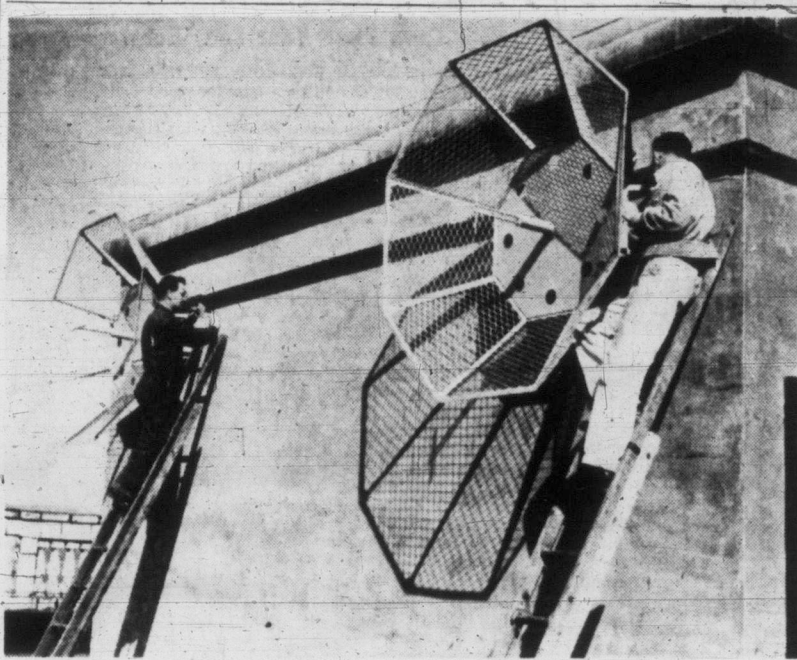

"Verily, I say unto you that one of you will betray me."

The Disciples searched each other's faces and were sorrowful. They quickly pleaded to know the identity of the betrayer. Judas

Telephone 'Lines' Take to the Air

Radio waves will soon replace underwater cables for telephone calls between Victoria, Port Angeles and Seattle. New B.C. Telephone Company installation, with receiver, transmitter and antennae atop Bank of Toronto Building, is expected to improve service, which is sometimes interrupted by shifting of submarine cables due to tide movements. Telephone workmen Ray Tindle, left, and Bob Grisenthwaite make final adjustments to antennae on bank building. New service is to be in operation at end of April. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Election Pot Boiling; Ingredients Confused

Political parties of B.C. are going into the Easter week-end in the midst of feverish preparation.

ARTHUR LAING may be new Liberal leader.

THE RESURRECTION STORY

By FELIX MCKNIGHT

ations for the general election two months hence.

Never in recent history has the political picture been quite so uncertain such a short time before a poll.

Two of the main parties, Liberals and CCF, are leaderless or practically so. Both are slated to straighten out this situation at conventions in Vancouver next week.

The Liberals meet Wednesday to choose a successor to former Premier Byron Johnson and the CCF on Friday to decide whether to accept Harold Winch's resignation, and if so, who to put in his place.

LAING FAVORED

Favorite, at the moment, in the Liberal race is Arthur Laing, MP for Vancouver South, a former provincial president of the Liberal Association.

Laing's bid has received growing support following definite word that Chief Justice

Gordon McG. Sloan has made a firm decision not to enter the contest. Right up to last week there was a possibility the chief justice might resign from the bench and re-enter the political field.

Fisheries Minister James Sinclair, who played an important part in the 1947 convention which chose Byron Johnson as leader and boosted him into the premiership, is now on the coast and will attend the meeting next week. He is not a candidate for leadership, however, informed Liberal circles say.

The CCF picture is even more confused. Undoubtedly there will be a demand from a substantial section of the party for Mr. Winch to remain as leader.

There is no really strong man in the party prepared to step into his shoes and take over a campaign at the last minute.

"DO OR DIE"

The CCF hierarchy recognizes that they are facing a "do or die" position in the coming poll. In last year's election the party reached the zenith of its power, with 18 seats, just short of enough to be called on to form a government.

A serious reduction in this representation could be a blow from which the party would never recover.

Progressive Conservatives, under their new leader, Deane Finlayson, are already actively at work lining up candidates. Although the party was almost wiped out last year they are planning a vigorous campaign with candidates in most ridings.

The party in the strongest position, organization-wise, is probably the Social Credit League. Ever since Mr. Bennett took office last August the Social Credits have been intensively organizing in preparation for the election he promised them.

Hundreds of groups have been formed in a cell-type of organization that reaches down to the grass roots.

The Social Credits are in the reverse position of last year when they went into the campaign without a selected leader. This time they have the premier of the day.

INTERESTING VOTE

The enigma of the coming poll is, of course, what will happen under the alternative voting system.

The alternative plan was originally conceived so that the two former partners in Coalition, Liberals and Conservatives, could appeal separately without necessarily throwing the election to the CCF on split votes.

It back-fired and benefited the old-line parties but the newly-formed Social Credits.

But experts who studied the alternative ballot found that large numbers of people marked their first and second choices for the CCF and Social Credits, and vice-versa. Their apparent aim was to defeat the existing government, without any particular study of the theories of the opposing parties.

LINE-UP DIFFERENT

This year the line-up is completely different. The Social Credits go to the country as the government and the CCF as the chief opposition.

Most election experts believe the alternative voting will show the effects of this and display a much changed pattern. Scored and CCF candidates probably will be marked at opposite ends of the ballots rather than in the one-two positions.

Milk Decontrol Move Defended By Premier

Winch Arguments 'Do Not Apply'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today defended the right of his cabinet to bring about price decontrol on milk through order-in-council.

The premier, in reply to a protest made Wednesday by CCF Leader Harold Winch, avowed "this is not a caretaker government, so what Mr. Winch said does not apply in this case."

Mr. Winch said the Bennett cabinet, in view of the government's defeat in the Legislature, was only a "caretaker cabinet," and as such, was bound by British constitutional procedure to deal only with routine matters until an election is held. Mr. Winch, particularly concerned with the cabinet's announced intention of bringing about decontrol of milk prices, said this would be "unconstitutional" since it was a controversial issue in the Legislature and was never decided by a vote of the House.

NO "CARETAKERS"

Today, Premier Bennett said what Mr. Winch said "might have been true if we were a caretaker government—but we are not."

The premier argued that his government was not defeated on a want-of-confidence motion, but on a matter of policy. He said the fact that after the defeat, the opposition parties gave consent to more than 50 government bills, without one word of debate, showed that the Social Crediters were "expected to continue on exactly the same basis as prior to the session."

"When I was called upon to form a government, I did so without any strings whatsoever," the premier said. "When the House was dissolved, it was on the same basis."

City Solicitor Reports April 9 On School Bill

City Solicitor Arthur Patton said today he would report to City Council April 9 on the current controversy over transfer of $75,000 school building funds.

In the meantime, Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay will take no action on a request of Greater Victoria School Board that amending by-laws to permit the transfer be passed. Esquimalt has already passed the by-law.

This was the latest development following a special meeting at City Hall Wednesday with Mayor Claude Harrison, City Manager Cecil Wyatt and representatives of Saanich and Oak Bay.

An earlier story that Saanich had done an "about face" and agreed to pass the enabling by-law was denied Wednesday by Reeve Joseph Casey.

Interpretation of Bill 94 which may remove power to finance school construction from the municipalities according to Mr. Patton, is reason for the latest delay.

The solicitor contends that if the bill is retroactive, it would make it illegal for municipalities to authorize the contentious transfer of funds. He wants time to study the bill. Transfer involves permitting funds from Central Junior High building account to be credited to Oak Bay Junior High.

Wednesday's meeting was called following a discussion between Mr. Patton and Deputy Education Minister F. T. Fairley on Bill 94.

Arrival of Crown Prince Akihito Set for April 11

Japanese Crown Prince Akihito, 19, and his party will arrive tentatively Saturday, April 11, at 7 p.m. in an RCAF North Star at Patricia Bay.

A party of 24 press representatives and others will arrive at the same time from San Francisco by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

It is understood the prince and his party will be in Victoria today.

He will visit five major cities in his trip across Canada en route to attend the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth. They are Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Montreal, in addition to Victoria.

At Ottawa the prince will pay a courtesy call on Governor General Vincent Massey.

Plans for the big Coronation festival to be held in Victoria are almost complete, it was announced today by Frank Hunter, chairman of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association.

The festival will run for four days, starting on Saturday, May 30, and ending on June 2, the day Queen Elizabeth is crowned Queen, he said. The festival will surpass in size all other celebrations held in the past in Victoria.

SPECIAL EXCURSIONS

Thousands of U.S. visitors from Washington, Oregon and other parts of the United States are expected to attend the festival. Mr. Hunter said. Special excursions to bring the visitors to Victoria are already being planned by transportation companies.

The festival program released by Mr. Hunter follows, with times and details of parades and major events to be announced later:

On Saturday, May 30, there will be bicycle races at Beacon Hill Park in the afternoon. In the evening, the Royal Canadian Navy Band will stage a sunset ceremony. Victoria's May Queen will also be crowned in front of the Legislative Buildings following a big parade through downtown city streets.

On Sunday afternoon a mass church service will be held in Beacon Hill Park.

On Monday there will be a folk festival and displays held in the Victoria Curling Rink in the afternoon and evening. This is being sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association. A grand pageant will also be held in Athletic Park at night.

Tuesday will be the big festival day. There will be a grand parade of navy, army and air force units, civilian organizations and floats. The route of the parade will be announced later.

Other activities to be held during the day are folk dancing at the Victoria Curling Rink, a motorcycle rodeo, a regatta at the Gorge, football at Athletic Park and outboard and inboard motorboat races off Willows Beach.

In the evening there will be an illuminated parade through the city, fireworks and a bonfire at Beacon Hill Park under the auspices of the Boy Scout Association.

The festival will reach its climax at the Memorial Arena where there will be a floor show and dancing.

Calcade of the West, a professional amusement show, will be in Victoria during the festival.

SINCLAIR DANGLES B.C. AS BAIT FOR IRISHMEN

James Sinclair, Minister of Fisheries at Ottawa, "switched portfolios" Wednesday to try and do a job for immigration.

A former rugby star at UBC, Oxford and Princeton, the Capilano member was an interested spectator at the Queen's Crimson Tide match at Royal Athletic Park.

Later, at a reception for the Irish ruggermen, the Hon. Mr. Sinclair undertook to sell the visitors on the desirability of settling in Canada.

"This is the country," he enthused, "and this is the best part of it, right here."

One of the Queen's boys commented: "Yes, in 25 years Canada will be quite a country."

"Twenty-five years be damned!" exploded Sinclair.

"Come to us now. We're going places."

A bit crestfallen, the visitor explained: "What I meant was that in 25 years Canada will be one of the really great countries of the world."

Mr. Sinclair returned to Vancouver Wednesday night, after huddling with Liberal executives here during the day. He will stay on the Coast for the Liberal convention in Vancouver next Wednesday.

Chamber of Commerce Officers

City contractor G. H. Wheaton (left) was elected president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at a directors' meeting today. Stuart Keate (right), Times publisher, was named vice-president; George I. Warren was returned as treasurer. Sixteen new directors were recently elected and it was from this group that the new top executives were chosen.

Portion of Ancient British Church on Way to Victoria

A piece of stone from the fabric of Southwell Minster, one of England's oldest cathedrals, is on its way to Victoria, where it will be built into the walls of Christ Church Cathedral.

The stone arrived in Saint John, N.B., Wednesday.

A gift from the Lord Bishop of Southwell to the Archbishop of British Columbia, it should arrive here April 8. The donation is a result of a visit here by the bishop a year ago, when he preached at a service in the cathedral.

According to Dean Philip Beattie, the stone likely will be inscribed and placed in the wall of one of the chapels. It will have as company similar stones from Canterbury Cathedral and Winchester Cathedral.

Foundation of the first church at Southwell, 16 miles northeast of Nottingham, was laid in the seventh century. Another followed in 960, after the invasion of Norsemen, and the building of the present church began during the reign of Henry I, 1100-1135.

It was Henry VIII, after the dissolution of the monasteries between 1521 and 1533, that contemplated erection of the church into a cathedral.

Palsy Group's Federal Grant Raised $3,000

The Cerebral Palsy Association of B.C. has been allotted a federal grant of $7,000 to help carry out its services this year.

Hon. Paul Martin, minister of health and welfare, announced today.

It is a boost of $3,000 over last year's grant.

The association now has about 50 children under its care, the minister said.

The federal grant provides salaries for a medical social worker and a speech therapist. About 70 per cent of cerebral palsied children have speech defects.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Where is Mount Robson? What is its height? Who first climbed it and when?

A. In the Cariboo district, south of Berg Lake, near the Robson River, its height is 13,668 feet. Controversy exists as to its first climbing. Rev. George Kinney, a retired minister of Victoria, in company with a Cariboo packer, reached the summit in 1911 but whether or not they touched the extreme altitude is in question. Records of the Canadian Alpine Club credit the first official complete climb to an expedition it organized in 1913. In the expedition were another Victorian, Major-General W. W. Foster, CMG, DSO, now British Columbia Power Commissioner, Captain A. H. McCarthy, and Konrad Kain, a well-known Austrian alpinist. The group made a complete traverse of the mountain and in a few places succeeding climbs, which, however, have been few in number owing to the difficult terrain and prevailing adverse weather.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times Editor." Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

How To Be Forehanded
—Use Soil Conditioner

By PENNY SAVER

To those of us who are struggling with hard-packed clay soil this soil conditioner, Krillium, sounds like a wonderful thing. After thorough mixing into the soil Krillium changes the clay particles into tiny balls of crumbs like those in good topsoil. It is necessary that the soil is first broken up until it is fine and crumbly, then this soil conditioner keeps that loose porous "loamy" consistency for you.

At 5 lbs. for $5.45, Krillium will treat soils ranging from moderate to heavy clay, 40 to 50 square feet, to a 6-inch depth; 80 to 100 square feet to a 3-inch depth. This recommendation is on the "safe side"—based on extensive tests over a period of years. You can spread dry fertilizer before applying Krillium and mix in both at the same time. This Merloam formulation makes the soil porous, loose, aerated and stable.

No more shifting, packing or eroding of soil under rainfall. It can be used in flower pots, window boxes, to repair bare spots on lawns; or five pounds will fix up an 80 square-foot new lawn to a depth of three inches. Remember, it is not a fertilizer in itself, but it enables the plant roots to spread and breathe.

First one out gets to use the Weed Wand! What a pleasure it will be after lugging around that heavy sprayer over there. This wand is about two and a half feet long, with a hollow stem, which you fill with a mixture of 2-4-D concentrate and water. There is a rubber cap at one end and a sponge at the other. Press sponge end on the tender heart of the weed and it will get an injection of the 2-4-D hormone that will turn up its toes, for sure.

No more random spraying—with this Weed Wand, at only $1.25, you can "spot" kill weeds right next to perennials, with no drift. It kills only the weeds you touch. No stooping, no digging and a 2-cent filling kills a thousand or more weeds. Four-ounce 2-4-D Concentrate Weed Killer costs 75 cents and 16 ozs. $1.50.

One of our garden shops is selling those Green Thumb-gloves for men at only $1.19, and recommends them for driving and any jobs around the car, as well as gardening. Women's Green Thumb-gloves are 98 cents. So here is your opportunity to save 41 cents, providing you go to the right place.

There are beautiful Easter lilies, with five blooms to a plant, selling for $1.99—all set to make your home lovely for the holidays.

AS WE LIVE

A Restless 'Wolf' Won't
Make the Ideal Husband

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

The typical "ladies' man" who likes the flattery and companionship of women and cannot resist an attractive girl is not a good matrimonial risk. The young woman who wrote the following letter is beginning to see this in her own case.

(Q)—"You asked me to write and tell you how things were going with my neglectful sweetheart. I have tried not to be too available to him and he said, 'I suppose if we got married, others would come before me.' I told him he couldn't expect me to stay home alone and wait for a man who never came. He seems to want to have all the girls and yet he says I have him hooked. He goes to see his ex-girl friend and, when I went away recently, he was out with her behind my back. It seems to me that if he loved me he would want to be with me as much as I want to be with him. If I am not available when he wants to see me, he goes and sees others. What shall I do now?"

(A)—The best thing you could do now would be to drop this young man from your list. You are going to have to do this sooner or later, unless you want to put yourself in a position to be unhappy for the rest of your life. Make the break now. It won't be any harder than it would be later, and by doing so you will save yourself prolonged uncertainty and unhappiness.

You may have this young man "hooked" but I wouldn't count on it. Furthermore, his idea of "hooking" seems to be rather different from that of most people. He is certainly given a long enough rope to hang himself and, if you are not careful, he will hang you too.

The very fact that he can turn so lightly to his ex-girl friend when you are not available or to some other girl if she too is not available, shows you pretty clearly what would be in store for you if you married him. If, for example, you were tied down to the home with children, where do you think he would be? You know the answer as well as I do. He would not be with you. He would be out having a good time with some other woman. Unless you want that sort of marriage, he has given you a warning that you will do well to heed before it is too late.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's great psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

Easter Egg Cake Fancy

Easter egg cake made with a prepared cake mix and decked out in pastel icing is fanciful, symbolic and delicious.

Easter dinner is always a joyous occasion where there are children and mothers usually love to surprise the family with a beautiful new dessert symbolizing Easter. Long ago one mother made an Easter Egg cake, a difficult and lovely affair.

Today, her delightful cake is still being made, but with far less trouble and with less hazard. The new prepared cake mixes come to our rescue.

EASTER EGG CAKE
Bake the cake—Make two round 8-inch cake layers from devil's food cake mix, using package directions.

Prepare the frosting—Cream ½ cup butter until soft. Add ½ teaspoon salt and 1½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Then add 2 unbeaten egg yolks and 1 teaspoon vanilla; blend well. Add 1½ cups additional sifted confectioners' sugar, alternately with about 2 tablespoons top milk. Beat after each addition until smooth and of right consistency to spread.

To 1 cup of the frosting, add 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; blend and set aside. Divide remaining frosting in three parts (½ cup each) and tint each part a different color, using 2 drops each of red, green and yellow food coloring. Reserve about 2 tablespoons of each of the tinted frostings for decorating and use remainder for spreading between layers as directed below.

Make the egg—Cut each cake layer in two, about ¼-inch off centre. This will make two large and two smaller pieces. Spread a thin layer of one of the tinted frostings on bottom of one large piece and place other large piece on it. Stand these upright, with cut sides on a cake plate.

Frost bottoms of the smaller pieces, each with a different tinted frosting. Place these against the larger pieces, one on each side. Trim the outside pieces at the top edges to help round off sides of cake. Then slice off wedge-shaped pieces from the four outside corners to give cake an oval shape.

Cover the whole mound with the reserved chocolate frosting, filling in to make an egg shape. Decorate egg with the reserved tinted frosting. Garnish with additional Easter decorations, as desired. To serve, cut across the egg, making four-layer slices of cake.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Does Your Car Get Better Care Than Your Body Does?

Most people allow their lives to manage them. It should be the other way around. Life can become a runaway horse if you lose control of it. This is true in the way you spend your energy. Whether you get from life that which you really want depends on self management.

This is true of health. If we allow our daily routines to short change us in sleep, relaxation, exercise and outdoor life, we are sure to pay for it. Are you satisfied to live through one 24 hours after another, day after day, with only average vitality and average enjoyment and accomplishment?

This is selling ourselves out pretty cheaply because if we determine to manage our lives rather than have them manage us, the result can be so different and so much more exciting. It is difficult to do this because of the demands of business and family life and society. However, we could all do a much better job of it than we do.

It is much better to indulge in preventive care and have regular preventive physical examinations than to wait until discomfort or pain send us scurrying to our doctor.

Most people take much better care of their cars than they do of their bodies. They keep their cars greased and oiled and they give them the food they need. They also give their cars the benefit of periodic examinations and tune-ups. How many folks do this for the body which must house their spirit all through this life?

Great emphasis is being placed by geriatric medicine on preventive care. The vision is to avoid trouble by discovering the signs of it long before it becomes crucial.

Try this exercise which gently massages the abdominal muscles. Lie on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Put some books on your abdomen and then slowly push the books up and then pull them down as far as you can. Keep your hips on the floor so that your abdominal muscles do all the work. This exercise is good for constipation.

TODAY'S RECIPE

RICESALMON PORCUPINES

Half cup uncooked rice, one 16-ounce can salmon and liquid, ½ cup grated carrot, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon curry powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper 1 10½-ounce can of mushroom soup, 1½ cups water.

Method—Mix together the rice, salmon, carrots, egg, onion, curry powder, salt and pepper. Press the mixture into six balls. Place in a greased baking dish, allowing space between, since balls expand during cooking. Mix together the soup and water and heat to boiling. Pour over the rice and salmon balls. If a very large baking dish is used, almost all of the soup mixture may be poured over the balls. But if the dish is somewhat small and shallow, use only half of the soup mixture since it is likely to cook over the sides of the dish. Cover baking dish and place in a preheated 350 degree oven. Bake about 1 to 1½ hours or until the visible rice is tender. Pour more soup over the balls as the rice absorbs the liquid. Serve with additional sauce made of mushroom soup plus water, if desired. This recipe makes 6 porcupines.

We suggest keeping a jar of shelled walnuts in the refrigerator so they'll be handy to use in cakes, cookies, breads and all the many ways of including their rich flavor in your cooking. When you buy walnuts in the shell, crack the whole amount and put them in a covered jar in the refrigerator. They keep very well when stored this way.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, April 2nd—There's no trick to cooking when you cook with the new GURNEY Gas Range. Its designers have thought of everything for your convenience. Cooking and baking are made so much easier with the special GURNEY features... automatic clock control; interior oven light... and above all, the special GURNEY "Even-Heat" oven that keeps the temperature exactly right—automatically—on the sides, the top, the bottom and even in the corners. But you'll want to see the new GURNEY features for yourself. Ask your dealer to show you the new GURNEY Gas Ranges—all of them "kitchen-tested" for careful cooking.

Here's A Wonderful Offer from the makers of French's Instant Potato... a 25¢ booklet called "Culinary Art" with 32 illustrated pages of superb recipes—including helpful facts about weights and measures—and a Meat Roasting Guide. All this is yours for just 10¢. Simply write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.—enclosing 10¢ in coin or stamps. Incidentally, if you haven't yet tried FRENCH'S INSTANT POTATO, I'd suggest you do! Takes just one minute to prepare them... no washing... no peeling... no cooking... no mashing... and no waste! Ask your grocer for a package and remember, to send me that time for your cook-book!

Now I Find Housework so much easier, so much quicker, since I made this discovery: S.O.S. Scouring Pads (the "magical" scouring pads with the soap inside) do so many jobs so well. The quickest and most economical way to clean old wax off floors is with S.O.S. And S.O.S. takes spots and stains from linoleum, too. Put a floor tile back in brand new condition. If you want to whiz through housecleaning, learn how quickly S.O.S. scours basins and bathtubs... how it restores lustre to any porcelain and enamel. You see, S.O.S. is a "clean-it-quick" combination of sturdy, interwoven fibres and grease-dissolving soap. Try it! I know you'll agree it's the most useful cleanser there is!

Solved! At last I've found the perfect answer to the "Problem of the Yellow Wash!" My white things used to look so yellow, but I remembered that there's no true white without blue. So of course the answer is to add Blue. You know you must rinse your wash to get the clothes really clean. Then simply put a dash of Blue in the water to get them really white. Your sheets, hubby's shirts and your precious white linen will fairly sparkle. Such a satisfying feeling! What's more, Blue is kind to fine fabrics. It won't harm them in the least. Costs just a few cents a month, too!

Yes, for the whitest wash, use RECKITT'S BLUE.

The Time Has Come to take a good look at the outside of your home. What needs to be done? Can you afford to do it now? Repairs can't wait, as you know from experience. So if you're short of ready cash, and your home needs repairing or repainting, talk over a Personal Loan with your BANK OF MONTREAL manager. Then start Personal Planning so you won't be short of cash next time an essential outlay like this one comes along.

Personal Planning has helped me through many a "financial crisis" with a minimum amount of struggle. Yes, this Rof M family-financing makes good sense because it's been designed for you and me. Talk About De Luxe Flavour! You really enjoy it, when you ask for BEEF BONNET DE LUXE MARGARINE. M-mmm... fresh, sweet flavour... its sweetness is the result of quality ingredients... and its freshness is sealed in. Each individual quarter pound of De Luxe Blue Bonnet is wrapped in pure aluminum foil. De Luxe Blue Bonnet is nutritious, too. Besides the natural nutrition of good ingredients, 16,000 units of valuable Vitamin A are added to every single pound. And you'll find the De Luxe Blue Bonnet quarters extra convenient. Just unwrap what you need and serve. No slicing, scooping or re-wrapping. For cooking the handy chart on the package shows where to cut for recipes.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Here's an idea for the next potluck supper the teenage crowd has at your house. Serve them hot dogs with all the fixings and a big pot of oaked lima beans. Prepare the beans as you regularly do, only use the large California dry limas instead of other dried beans. You'll like their buttery, nut-like flavor.

String beans receive a gourmet's touch when prepared this way. Put one package of cooked frozen French-cut string beans in baking dish, stir in a can of undiluted mushroom soup and half cup broken walnut pieces. Top with buttered bread crumbs and heat in moderate oven about 15 minutes until bubbly around the edge.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

At Admiral's House

The new Canadian consul-general at San Francisco, Mr. C. C. Eberts, and Mrs. Eberts, who are visiting in Victoria at present, with the United States consul at Victoria, Mr. Rufus H. Lane Jr., and Mrs. Lane, were guests of Rear Admiral J. C. Hibbard and Mrs. Hibbard at luncheon at Admiral's House, HMCS Dockyard, today.

Honored By Co-Workers

Board members and members of the staff of Family and Children's Service gathered in the board room at Spencerhouse on Tuesday at 5 for an informal party to honor Mrs. J. P. James, a co-worker, who is leaving Victoria for eastern Canada in May. Mrs. Donald McAdie presided at the tea table, which was centred with an attractive arrangement of daffodils. Miss Mildred Wright, director of F and CS social service work, presented Mrs. James with a gift on behalf of staff members. Mr. Alan Baker, president of the board of directors, spoke briefly, wishing the honor guest good luck.

To Attend Smith College Reunion

Mrs. A. J. Tullis, 1014 Verrinder Avenue, is visiting in Dallas, Texas, the guest of her nephew, Mr. James Olesen. Later she will spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Roy Calhoun, in Little Rock, Arkansas, and after visiting in Boston will attend a reunion of her alma mater, Smith College, in North Hampton. Mrs. Tullis expects to be away about two months.

Concludes Four-Month Trip

Mrs. J. L. Clay returned to her Beach Drive home this week after a four-month trip that took her to eastern Canada, where she spent some time with relatives and friends, then a motor trip to Florida and the southern states. Mrs. Clay traveled home by way of California, visiting in San Diego and in San Francisco en route.

Home After Two-Year Absence

Miss Margaret Izard has returned to the city after a two-year absence, and is staying with her parents at 980 Arundel Drive. While away she attended the College of Puget Sound in Tacoma, taking an advanced standing course in occupational therapy. She also spent some time affilating in hospitals in Oakland, San Jose and Portland. She plans to remain in Victoria for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ridgway and Master Bryan Ridgway left today for Portland where they will spend the Easter week with Mrs. Ridgway's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Robinson.

Her fellow staff members of the Royal Bank of Canada, Douglas Street, honored Miss Shirley Quinn recently, at a shower at the home of Mrs. Richard McNie, Wilson Street. Miss Quinn, who is to be married on Saturday, received a corsage of pink rosebuds and carnations. Pink carnations were presented to her mother, Mrs. F. J. Quinn. Those present were: Mrs. G. Henderson, Mrs. M. Mahan, Mrs. K. Ross, Mrs. D. Lattimer, Mrs. J. Garrett, Mrs. A. Schlatter, Mrs. K. Maundor and the Misses H. Pearson, S. Show, D. Thomas, J. Dovey, S. Lamont, J. Remphrey, B. Boag, M. Gilbert and G. Frame.

The 94th birthday of one of Victoria's oldest citizens, Dr. Alice Ravenhill, was marked this week, when many friends visited and wrote to her at the

Kate Aitken To See Grand Canyon Service

Canada's "flying Kate Aitken" takes off this week to cover one of the most breath-taking spectacles on the North American continent—the Easter sunrise service at the Grand Canyon. Leaving Toronto on Good Friday, Mrs. A. will first fly to Phoenix, Ariz., where she will be received at the State House by Governor Howard Pyle, himself a veteran broadcaster. The next day she leaves for Grand Canyon to participate in the 6:30 a.m. Easter service at "the greatest natural cathedral on earth."

Centuries before the white man came to Grand Canyon the great gorge was known as the place of Forever, the House of the Great Holy. Now, as travelers from near and far come to worship on Easter morn at this immense open-air shrine, the spectacle of sunrise over the canyon is proclaimed by a celestial choir who sing Easter music composed for this special service.

Kate Aitken, who has worshipped at Eastertide in Rome, London, New York, remote northern outposts, and dozens of Canadian cities, towns and villages, is looking forward to Easter at Grand Canyon as one of the most thrilling experiences of her much-traveled career.

This world-renowned travel and radio commentator will broadcast her regular program from Victoria on Thursday, April 9. She will be guest speaker at Women's Canadian Club in the Sirocco the same afternoon and in the evening will address the annual meeting of Provincial Chapter, IO DE, in the Empress Hotel.

Girls' Auxiliaries Spring Festival

The girls' auxiliary today is recognized as the official organization for 'teen-age girls in the Church of England in Canada. It provides a training round where girls may obtain direction in leadership and learn to accept responsibility in their service to the church and the community.

The purpose of girls' auxiliary program planning is directed toward the education of young girls in a preparation for life which is earnestly and joyously Christ centered. The weekly program includes devotions, skills, recreation and study, and is molded around the girls' auxiliary badge system, which includes a free choice of home nursing, social service, Bible and missionary knowledge, churchmanship, handicrafts, Dorcas work, music, drama, physical fitness, cooking and campcraft.

GATHER NEXT WEEK

Annual Spring Festival, which takes place next Thursday and Friday, at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall, provides a natural outlet for the year's activities. It also serves to promote mutual interest between girls' auxiliary branches throughout the diocese. Points are awarded for each festival entry and the branch gaining the highest aggregate points holds the girls' auxiliary banner for a year. A pennant is awarded for progress and there is a special banner award for mission points.

Girls are expected from as far north as Alert Bay, Uchelet, Tofino, Cortez Island, Campbell River, Comox, Courtenay, Alberni south to Victoria, with the girls of the Victoria deanery acting as hostesses. Registration will take place at Memorial Hall on Thursday afternoon. His Grace, the Most Rev. Harold Sexton, DD, will be the celebrant at a corporate communion service for the girls on Friday morning at 8 a.m. The diocesan girls' secretary, Mrs. H. G. Horth, is in charge of the festival.

Royal Schools Program

Members of Royal Schools Association were entertained recently by Mrs. W. J. Hamilton at her home on Southgate Street. A business meeting preceded the musical program.

It was decided to send a letter to England, expressing regret over the withdrawal of Royal Schools examiners from Canada after this year.

Program of piano and vocal selections followed, with Dorothy-Mae Charles and Malcolm Hamilton the artists. Miss Charles sang Elizabethan love lyrics, as well as songs by Handel and others. Cousperin, Schumann, Brahms and Gershwin were included in Mr. Hamilton's program.

Principal feature of the program was a group of duo piano selections played by Miss Charles and Mr. Hamilton, including pieces by Bach, Handel and Rimsky-Korsakov.

CLUB CALENDAR

Ex-Servicemen's Branch No. 182, Canadian Legion, BE SL, tonight at 8, in the auditorium, Canadian Legion, Arena Way. All members asked to attend. Spring tea, Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Company, on Saturday afternoon.

Mt. Tolmie Scout Association, rummage sale, City Market, Saturday at 7. Proceeds for building fund.

A Daffodil Tea

The King's Daughters plan to hold the annual daffodil tea on Saturday, April 11, in the Douglas Room at Hudson's Bay Company store. Mrs. Percy Gibbs, wife of the reeve of Oak Bay, will officially open the affair and Mrs. R. B. Elliott will receive guests. Mrs. W. Bremner is in charge of tea arrangements and there will be candy and flower stalls.

Ladies of Royal Colwood Golf Club, rummage sale, Hard of Hearing Club, Douglas Street, Saturday, commencing at 9 a.m.

Royal Bride Chapter, IODE, tonight at 8, at headquarters.

Toastmistresses' Hidden Auction

A hidden auction, sponsored by Victoria Toastmistress Club, Y. Davison and McKinty, proved amusing and profitable for 70 guests on Tuesday evening. The affair was held in the rumpus room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bayliss, Mayfair Drive, Mount Tolmie. Convener was Mrs. E. Lehman.

The auction included everything from groceries, kitchen equipment, dishes, jewelry to cosmetics. Mrs. M. Gunn and Mrs. N. Smith were auctioneers and highest bidder at time of the hidden signal took the article up for sale. Mrs. C. C. Warren was cashier and Alan Carr, the messenger.

Stalls of candy, home cooking and plants were convened by Mesdames J. McKinty, J. Williams and D. Pilling. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Bayliss.

Want Shoes That Fit? Then Use Common Sense

"My feet are a wreck — and it's the fault of the shoe salesmen." That's the blistering answer one lady recently gave a shoe industry pollster who was making a survey of customer complaints.

Although this lady was likely exaggerating, the survey found that 85 per cent of the women queried were not too happy with the treatment their feet received from the country's shoe clerks.

Actually, you are the best judge as to whether the shoe fits. And to make sure you won't be hobbling along this spring, and summer, follow a few simple rules laid down by the experts, when you go to buy those new shoes.

Generally, one recommendation is that you make certain your shoes are all leather—top and bottom. The unique natural fibres in leather make it supple, yet tough, so that it supports the foot and molds itself to the foot's contours — without binding. However, even the very best leather shoe must fit properly, if you are to be comfortable. So keep these points in mind when you enter the shoe store:

BOTH FEET

The sales clerk should measure both your feet—they probably are not the same size, and you should be fitted for the larger one.

Don't be misled by a salesman who, in response to your anguished complaints, tells you, "They'll be fine when you've broken them in." Shoes that have to be "broken in" are usually shoes that do not fit.

The fit should be snug, but not cramped; three-quarters of an inch between the toes and tip of the shoe is ideal, with enough ease around the foot to permit the leather to be bumped up slightly with your fingers. You need a firm counter at the heel that hugs the foot, especially if you're purchasing high heels. Constant slipping of the foot at the heel will give rise to bumps and calluses.

If your feet have a tendency to swell, never buy shoes in the morning. An accurate fit early in the day may be too tight by afternoon. Remember, foot doctors stress genuine all-leather shoes for active everyday wear. Some shoe materials do not provide proper ventilation and may cause excessive perspiration.

THE EASTER PARADE—ment approximately 80c a pair. Some dramatic and sparkling movies hit town this Easter weekend.

An historic one is "Bwana Devil" which opens at the Odeon Theatre on Good Friday. This picture is the result of television's terrific impact—it is the movie world's effort to draw the crowds back to the theatre seats and away from the drawing rooms. It is three-dimensional—3-D for short—where the usual flat pictures are given depth. Where lions—as in the case of "Bwana Devil"—appear to be leaping right out of the screen and into the theatre.

"Bwana Devil" is the story of a railway across Africa. Because of the polaroid glasses theatre-goers will wear, the jungle and the mountains, the actors, the animals will appear to be "on stage." The way, are of a light grey plastic. They fit snugly but comfortably. Beware of them though. Don't try to snitch a pair thinking they would make good sun glasses. Because although they look like sun glasses they aren't and wearing them in the sun might seriously impair your eyesight. Besides, they cost the Odeon manage-

DEL ROGERS IS DANILO

Popular Radio Star Hero of Merry Widow

Del Rogers, a resident here for the last six years whose fine tenor voice has become known to Victorians only through the medium of radio, will make his first stage appearance here in the forthcoming production of "The Merry Widow."

Mr. Rogers has been cast in the leading role of Prince Danilo in the Franz Lehár classic. He will play opposite Margaret Hall, former Theatre Under the Stars performer, who will take the title part.

Originally from Edmonton, Mr. Rogers was a regular CBC performer in Toronto, where he went to study music before coming to the coast. He has his own radio program here for some time.

"The Merry Widow" will be presented April 23, 24 and 25 at the Royal Victoria Theatre by the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society. It is the society's second venture into a musical outside the realm of Gilbert and Sullivan works.

Last spring the society presented a successful production of Victor Herbert's "Red Mill." Tickets for "The Merry Widow" now are on sale at Kent's and Fletcher's music stores.

English Club Toasts Victoria Rotary

A Rotary Club in Gateshead, England, has advised the Victoria Rotary Club that it will be toasted in a "hands across the sea" ceremony.

A letter written to George L. Warren here from H. L. Appleby sketched the history of the town. Mr. Appleby said also that he had been here in 1923 as a crewmember on a steamer, had fished salmon the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan while his ship was in drydock.

3 Persons Injured In Auto Accidents

Two Cars Crash at Quadra and Fort, Third Runs Into Lamp Standard at Roundabout

Three persons received minor injuries in two traffic accidents on city streets Wednesday night. Police report damage was extensive.

In one of the accidents, at the Hillside Fountain Roundabout, lamp standard was broken which set off a fire alarm box. General confusion of the accident was heightened as a result. Fire trucks raced to the scene.

Treated at hospitals and then released were:

Hilda Andrews, 45, of 2538 Killarney, cuts and abrasions to the forehead; Maurice V. Punt, 16, Townsend Drive, Royal Oak, forehead cuts; and Jack Quintan, 17, Wray Avenue, slight cut on top of head.

8:40 p.m. Quintan was a passenger in the Punt car. Police classed vehicle damage as medium.

Peter A. McInnes, 373 McKenzie, escaped unhurt, but his car was heavily damaged when it collided with a city light standard at the Roundabout, Government at Hillside, at 11:08 p.m. Police said McInnes, proceeding north on Government, entered the Roundabout and failed to make a proper right turn, struck the centre circle, mounted a curb and hit a lamp standard. The standard was snapped off by the impact.

Dangerous Driving Draws $25 Fine

Driver of one of two cars badly damaged when they careened off Mount Newton Crossroad last Thursday night, Arthur H. Fido, 18, of Mount Newton, was fined $25 in Central Saanich police court Wednesday for dangerous driving.

He pleaded guilty. William F. Dunn, 18, of Sidney, similarly charged, pleaded not guilty and was remanded to next Wednesday for trial before Magistrate A. I. Thomas.

Police said the Dunn car left the road at a turn, hit a ditch and finished up on its side. Almost at the same time the Fido car went off the road and turned end over end. Both drivers miraculously escaped injury. About $1,000 damage was done to the cars.

There is no "overnight cure" for irregularity

But there is a simple, natural answer to the common problem of irregularity due to lack of bulk

There are men and women (perhaps you're one of them) who won't take their "nature" and they try to substitute "artificial" for the "natural" regularity which sensible daily habits and sufficient bulk in the diet could probably maintain.

Many fall into the habit of using laxatives in a way laxative makers never intended. They take "big doses" willy-nilly without even reading the directions on the label.

Naturally, such overdoing—with products intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage—exerts upon the delicate digestive system an unnatural strain.

There's nothing wrong, of course, with taking laxatives occasionally. If you feel you have to take a laxative, just be sure you take it wisely—in an accurate, recommended dose.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE. IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE.

In many natural foods—such as certain vegetables, fruits, and grains—nature grows abundant natural bulk which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no other natural food is natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel, known generally as bran.

Bran is nature's "laxative food" instead of a medicine. When properly processed and shredded, whole wheat bran yields smooth, natural bulk that the digestive system can handle in a natural way.

The Kellogg Company has made whole wheat bran into a delicious breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN PERFORMS NATURALLY WHAT DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES DO CHEMICALLY. IT HELPS CLEAR THE INTESTINES OF WASTE IN A NATURAL WAY. IT PROVIDES SOFT NATURAL BULK FOR EASY NATURAL ACTION.

There is no stomach upset, no churning, no after-effect except the feeling of satisfaction and fulfillment that comes with natural, normal elimination.

To obtain lasting relief, of course, Kellogg's All-Bran must be eaten regularly. You can have it for breakfast every morning secure in the knowledge that it isn't habit-forming.

More than one million servings of Kellogg's All-Bran are consumed each day. This popularity of itself is proof that this natural laxative cereal lives up to what we say about it.

But even better proof comes from thousands of satisfied All-Bran users. They write of their own free will to tell us what natural relief they receive from eating Kellogg's All-Bran daily and drinking plenty of water.

EAT KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN EVERY MORNING FOR 10 DAYS THEN, IF YOU'RE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED, SEND THE EMPTY CARTON TO THE KELLOGG COMPANY, LONDON, ONTARIO—AND GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Remember—Kellogg's All-Bran has helped millions. Why not you?

THE DOCTOR SAYS
By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Ulcer Treatment Is to Relieve Irritation, Allow Time to Heal

Peptic ulcer or ulcer of the stomach is a common condition today. The cause or causes are not fully known, though some believe that the strain of modern living has something to do with it.

There is probably more excitement and wear and tear on the nervous system brought about by noise, automobiles, speed and the like now than there was 50 years ago, but this point is difficult to prove.

It is certain, however, that people with ulcers of the stomach who are getting along well may become much worse following an especially tiring or irritating conference, an emotional upset, or a shock, such as is brought about by a death in the family. This often happens even while the person is continuing a treatment which has brought some comfort and has relieved symptoms for a long time.

Ulcers occur both in the stomach itself and in the duodenum, which is that portion of the intestine into which the stomach empties.

The ulcer starts as a small defect in the lining of the stomach or mucous membrane, and becomes deeper and larger around as it develops. Eventually it may become deep enough to reach the tiny nerve endings which carry pain sensations to the brain. Consequently, at the very beginning an ulcer rarely produces symptoms and it is not until it has become fairly deep that one is aware of something wrong.

All treatments for ulcer have the common purpose of relieving the irritation on its surface; that is, in the stomach or duodenum, so that the ulcer has a chance to heal. The most irritating substance which comes in contact with the ulcer is the hydrochloric acid manufactured by the stomach itself.

Frequent feedings, the giving of alkaline powders and other preparations are all aimed at reducing the irritating effect of the hydrochloric acid and thus allowing the ulcer time to heal. There does not appear to be any single treatment that is "best" for everyone. Indeed, surgery is also one of the treatments most useful in some cases.

COMPLICATIONS SERIOUS

Besides the pain and distress of the ulcer there are two serious complications. When an ulcer eats across a small blood vessel, bleeding takes place. Sometimes this is slow and the blood merely passes down the intestinal tract. At other times the bleeding may be rapid, filling the stomach, and causing vomiting. In either case, bleeding is a sign requiring prompt and serious attention.

The other complication is perforation—the ulcer eats entirely through the wall of the stomach and makes a hole into the abdominal cavity. This raises the danger of peritonitis and immediate surgery is in order.

March This Year Dropped Bluster, Gave Little Rain

March this year lacked its usual bluster, as he reduced the month's 31 days to statistics for the record book.

There was little rain—only .77 inch instead of the usual 1.41 inches—and the sunshine total of 136 hours was 15 hours below average.

Mean temperature for the month was 45 degrees, or 1 degree above normal. Highest temperature reached was 56 degrees March 6, and the low for the month was 33 degrees. March 1. There was only a trace of snow instead of the usual 6 inch.

Despite the warm temperatures and lack of precipitation, rain was recorded on 16 days instead of the usual 14. Total precipitation since January 1 is 14.37 inches, or 4.79 inches above average.

Conciliation Asked By Local Machinists

CCL Machinists' Union Local 3 has applied for conciliation proceedings in negotiations between union members and Nanaimo Foundry & Engineering Works Ltd., a subsidiary of Victoria Machinery Depot.

J. A. Cornthwaite, union business agent, said Wednesday the men are receiving $1.70 per hour, and want $1.95 plus half-payment of health plan premiums. The company has offered 7 1/2 cents and the health plan premium payment.

Canadian Steel Union Chief To Protest Ban in Jamaica

TORONTO (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United-Steelworkers of America, CIO, said Wednesday he is protesting to the Canadian and British governments over restrictions imposed on him during a visit to Jamaica.

He arrived home Wednesday from the British West Indies colony, where he met representatives of the National Workers' Union of Jamaica to discuss assistance to organized bauxite aluminum ore miners.

Mr. Millard said that on his arrival in Jamaica March 22 he was handed a police order which said:

Painters' Pay Up Five Cents an Hour

Starting Wednesday more than 200 painters of Victoria and Vancouver Island will enjoy a five-cent hourly pay boost.

Union business agent Donald Bushell said the new rate becomes effective under the terms of an 18-month agreement reached last September after a 13-week strike by painters.

Pay from now until the end of the year will be $1.92 for brush painters, and $2.02 for spray painters.

If there is no downward trend in the cost of living by December 31, then rates will be increased by another 3 cents per hour, Mr. Bushell said.

COURTENAY.—Tenders will be called for a $150,000 addition to the post office here as soon as temporary quarters have been found. The office will be moved to give contractors more freedom in their work of building and renovation.

SIDNEY.—A. K. Hemstreet, JP, has been elected president of the Saanichton Social Credit group. Other officers are L. Farrell, vice-president, and Mrs. F. Atkin, secretary-treasurer.

LAKE COWICHAN.—A total of $834 has been donated to the annual Red Cross drive here, according to the campaign chairman, E. P. Rithaler. Quota for the district is $1,100.

LADYSMITH.—An arbitration board decision to reduce District 67 School Board estimates of $349,393 by $3,000 has been accepted by trustees. North Cowichan Municipality had sought to have the estimates reduced by $20,000.

DUNCAN.—Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. Violet Minnie Carson, 73, native of London, who died here Monday.

She took up residence in Victoria in 1899, but in the last 12 years had lived here. She was a member of both Cowichan Chapter, IODE, and King's Daughters.

Dress-Clad Molester.—Robs Woman of Shoes

VANCOUVER (CP).—Vancouver's shoe stealing, dress-clad molester struck again Tuesday night.

Miss June Jacobson told police she was walking with her sister when the man, wearing a trench coat over a skirt and white stockings, seized her and threw her to the pavement. He tore off her shoes and fled.

This is the third similar attack on Vancouver streets in the last two months.

CAMPBELL RIVER.—Dental care for Grade 1 children of Campbell River and Quadra Island, to be financed by federal health grants, school board of District 72, and parents, will begin next September.

Arrangements were made following a meeting of the board with Dr. F. McCombie, of the provincial health and welfare department.

COURTENAY.—Government action to relieve an employment emergency in this district will be asked in a resolution to be sent to Premier W. A. C. Bennett by the Courtenay CCF group.

"Comox Constituency Association regrets the indifference of the government to the serious unemployment situation here due to the closure of Canadian Collieries No. 8 mine and delayed opening of logging operations," it read.

France Honors Canadian With Famed Legion

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP).—A former RCAF officer has been decorated twice for gallantry as a member of the French Foreign Legion fighting the Communists in Indo-China, it was learned today.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cawker said they had been informed that their son, legion private Hugh Cawker, 30, was awarded the Médaille Militaire and the Croix De Guerre with Palm. He won them for action in northern Indo-China against Communist-led Vietnamese forces.

Cawker is one of six Canadians known to be in the Foreign Legion. He joined the famed force in November, 1951.

The Cawkers said their son was decorated following a battle near Binh, southeast of Hanoi, in which his lower right arm was shot off by machinegun fire.

THE LONG ARM.—Twenty-four years ago $4 was taken in a robbery. Today police held James M. Dunn, 59, in connection with the theft. They said fingerprints Dunn made recently on a cab driver application led to his arrest.

Chapman, Patch Seek Nomination by Tories

Former Basketball Ace and Automotive Man Would Run in June 9 Provincial Elections

Former basketball ace Arthur Chapman and automotive man Robert Patch have signified their intentions to seek nomination in Victoria as Progressive Conservative Party candidates in the June 9 provincial election.

A party nominating meeting will be held April 7. Mr. Chapman, aged 40, is engaged in the life insurance business. He is well known in sports, having been a member of the 1936 Canadian Olympic Games basketball team and a star performer with the Victoria Blue Ribbons and Victoria Dominions, both Canadian championship squads.

Mr. Patch is president of the Victoria Progressive Conservative provincial association and first vice-president of the Victoria federal Progressive Conservative Association.

Walter S. Miles, a Progressive Conservative candidate here last year, has been approached to run again but he has said it is unlikely that he will allow his name to go before the nominating convention.

Mrs. Margaret Harvey, another party candidate here in 1952, has said she is not interested in running again.

One-Tusked Rogue Elephant Kills Again

BEIRA, East Africa (AP).—A rogue white elephant Tuesday made its second killing of a white man in the area of Vila Pery, 100 miles from here. The rogue apparently was turned out of his herd after losing one tusk in a fight. His new victim was a German, Horst Rohe, 38. His African guide, who escaped, identified the elephant as the one that killed another white man in the same area.

City Planned Hiring 'Scabs' Says Unionist

A charge that the City Council recently considered hiring "scab" labor, was made by John Aubry, a labor delegate to a meeting of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC) Wednesday.

Mr. Aubry said the councilors had suggested hiring pensioners to work for 75 cents an hour to clean city streets so as to avoid paying the regular union wage of $1.50.

"It is shameful to see a council talking of paying elderly men only 75 cents an hour when young men get $1.50 for doing the same type of work," he said. "They should receive the same treatment as young men. A man is worthy of his hire."

He charged that Mayor Claude Harrison and all the aldermen were working against the labor unions. Councillor Brent Murdoch was singled out as the foremost "anti-unionist" in the council.

TO SKI CAMP

Two Victorians and a resident of Chemainus will attend the annual ski camp of the Alpine Club of Canada at Berge Lake in Mount Robson Provincial Park from April 3 to 11.

They are Noel F. Lax, 398 Constance Avenue; Miss Margaret Reiss, 1218 McKenzie Street; and P. D. Guilbride, Chemainus.

Alpinists from all parts of Canada are attending the annual ski meet.

School for Atomic Submarine Sailors Soon Graduates Class

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP).—The school for atomic submariners is getting ready to graduate its first class.

The score or so officers and men in the class will be the "engineering force" for the United States' atomic-powered submarine Nautilus.

When, probably some time next year, the skipper of Nautilus speaks the old order "one-third ahead," these men will be the first in the world to turn on atomic energy for motive power.

Behind them will be a year and a half of training unlike that any sailors ever sweated through.

At first it was commonplace. Then it began to grow tougher; more intricate. There was the theory of nuclear fission. Then they studied the blueprints and

Law Enforcement To Cost Oak Bay $48,272 in 1953

Police protection, law enforcement and new equipment will cost Oak Bay taxpayers a total of $48,272 in 1953. According to the police commission estimates presented at Wednesday's council meeting, $1,490 will go for a new patrol car.

Also announced at the council meeting was the appointment of Griffith Jones as municipal assessor.

"mock-up" models of the atomic engine itself.

Eventually they came to the "submarine thermal reactor" site.

In Washington Tuesday the AEC made the first official announcement that an atomic power plant to propel a submarine had been placed in operation on the dry land of its Idaho testing station.

Cmfr. J. J. McGaraghan, who heads the navy contingent at the submarine reactor plant, says every officer and man on the project "takes a personal interest in every nut and bolt" in the plant.

Shortage of Serviced Land Blocks Housing

OTTAWA (CP) — Resources prospect is not welcome to say Minister Winters said Wednesday night that the greatest obstacle to maintaining the current housing rate of 100,000 dwellings annually is the shortage of serviced land.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Appraisal Institute of Canada, Mr. Winters said a surplus of serviced land provided with roads, sewage and water facilities has gradually diminished.

The supply of mortgage money in 1952 was adequate for 83,000 units started. This supply might become more difficult as the annual housing program rises. But that was not the main problem.

"It's becoming more and more the case that new housing depends on the provision of new serviced land," he said. Apart from providing usual facilities for new lands, municipalities were faced with building new schools.

"Municipalities are thus being faced with the prospect of heavy capital expenditures. At today's construction costs, and at today's interest rates, this

Sunday Act Enforcement Puzzles TLC

Who is responsible for enforcing the Lord's Day Alliance Act?

Percy Rayment, secretary of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC), told a labor council meeting Wednesday that he has been trying to find this out for weeks but no one in the province seems to know.

He said he wrote to the city asking it to take action against men working for wages on Sunday.

He said he got a reply that the province was responsible for enforcing the act.

He said he wrote to the attorney-general asking him to enforce the act and he got a reply that it was the city's responsibility.

He said he is now going to write to the city to find out what they have to say about the attorney-general's claim. "I have an idea its going to be very difficult to get an answer," he said.

C. J. Ferber New Comptroller-General

Charles John Ferber, C.A. has been promoted from deputy comptroller-general to comptroller-general in the provincial government's finance department.

Mr. Ferber, 47, who joined the civil service eight years ago, succeeds John A. Craig in the high finance post. Mr. Craig retired Monday.

Test Near for Red Sincerity—Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today much will depend on the next few days in testing the sincerity of Communist overtures about exchange of prisoners of war in Korea. The test would come at Panmunjom and at United Nations headquarters.

Gunderson Asked to Run in Oak Bay

Finance Minister Einar Gunderson told a Social Credit delegation from Oak Bay this afternoon that he would give serious consideration to its request that he run for election in the Oak Bay riding at the forthcoming provincial election. Mr. Gunderson, who lives in Oak Bay, said he was honored by the delegation's request.

His likely opponents would be Liberal P. A. Gibbs, who unseated Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb in the election last summer, and Deane Finlayson, provincial leader of the Progressive Conservatives.

Record Opening for Montreal Port

MONTREAL (CP)—Captain Thomas Quinn today made port of Montreal history when he docked his ship, the Canuk Line's Seaboard Star, the earliest date in record. He beat the previous mark by five days, a record set in 1949 by another Montreal-owned ship, the Mont Alta. The Seaboard Star sailed from the United Kingdom.

Salmon Sale to Britain Completed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sale of $4,250,000 worth of British Columbia salmon to the United Kingdom has been completed, Fisheries Minister Sinclair announced here today. Mr. Sinclair announced completion of the sale following conferences with Sir Andrew Jones of the British food mission in Canada, and representatives of the B.C. Fisheries Association.

HARMLESS, EXPERT SAYS

Radio-Active Dust Blown to This Area

Victoria housewives who find themselves sweeping up a strange yellow dust will not need to have it analysed. Chances are that it is radio-active clay blown from Las Vegas, Nevada, by U.S. A-bomb tests.

The dust is harmless, Vancouver housewives have been sweeping the mysterious yellow dust from their doorsteps.

At Seattle, radiation specialists said the dust apparently was carried north on prevailing winds after last Thursday's nuclear explosion in Nevada. Lewis Dodd, of Yellow Island in the San Juan group, called on University of Washington scientists when his aluminum roof turned yellow. They identified scrapings from the roof as radioactive Nevada clay.

"If it is in the San Juan Islands it must be here too," said John Walker, deputy mines minister. "If anyone finds yellow dust on their roof we would be glad to check it on the Geiger counter in our laboratory."

HARMLESS
The Seattle scientists emphasized that the radioactive fission material is harmless. It apparently was carried north by prevailing winds, they said. Mr. Walker said a delicate instrument would be required to test such material and that its background would have to be examined carefully because "everything is radioactive to a certain extent."

May Install Lights Along CPR Track

Government leaders in Victoria are keeping a watchful eye on the tinder-box situation in the Kootenays, where three dynamiting incidents in the last three nights have prompted fear of new major trouble by Doukhobors.

Although Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who is directly responsible for law enforcement, is remaining quiet about what steps the government is taking, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today that flood lights may soon be installed along that section of the CPR's Kettle Valley line, where in recent nights, track has been blown.

Extra police were sent to the district earlier. "We are doing everything possible to protect the public," the premier said.

NO PAPER GOOD FRIDAY; WEEKEND FEATURES EASTER

Tomorrow, Good Friday, will be observed as a holiday by the Times staff and there will be no regular issue of the paper. The next editions will be on Saturday, which will include the Easter issue of Weekend Picture Magazine. It features an article on the amazing coloring of Easter eggs by Ukrainians, an art they have brought to Canada.

Another outstanding feature in Weekend is a series of animal pictures, taken by famed photographer Nicholas Morant in the Canadian Rockies.

Girl Cyclist In Collision With Truck

Erna Hazard, 12, of 3858 Douglas Street, was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital during the noon hour today suffering from injuries received when her bicycle collided with a Club's Ltd. truck.

Saanich police, who took the girl to hospital, reported she was conscious. Driver of the truck was Robert G. Wallace, 603 Hampshire Road. The accident took place opposite 654 Ralph Street.

Kootenay Blasts May Bring Vigilante Action

NELSON, B.C. (BUP)—The men who run the trains threatened to "take matters into their own hands" today unless something is done to halt fresh rail bombings and fire raids allegedly committed by the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

Members of the International Brotherhood of Trainmen held a closed meeting with other citizens' groups in Nelson, B.C., Wednesday night, after which a spokesman said the trainmen were determined to have "something done."

MANY CITY SERVICES

Good Friday Pilgrims Trace Master's Steps to Calvary

While thousands of Christian pilgrims in Jerusalem on Good Friday will retrace the steps of Christ on the way to Calvary, Victoria people will show their devotion by attending special church services.

At Christ Church Cathedral, a children's service will be held at 9:30; matins at 10:30, and a three-hour devotional service, conducted by Rev. H. R. Whitehead, will begin at noon. In the evening, the cathedral choir will present a recital of sacred music beginning at 8.

At St. John's Anglican Church, Canon George Biddle will conduct a one-hour service beginning at 11.

The Church of St. Saviour will hold a children's Easter service at 10 and a three-hour service beginning at noon.

A morning service will be conducted in the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord at 11 by Dr. J. G. Brown.

In Jerusalem Friday the traditional procession through the Old City will stop to kneel on the cobbles at each of the 14 stations which commemorate incidents that took place as Christ went to his crucifixion on the hill of Golgotha.

Soviet Overtures Now Worldwide

Compiled From AP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower said today the United States should take any Communist peace overtures at face value until there is reason to believe they might not be sincere.

The president told a press conference the government stands ready to meet every honest advance made by Russia and other Communist-bloc countries which is in the direction of world peace.

Meanwhile, in far corners of the world today the Soviet "peace offensive" moved into high gear.

Russian zone border guards in Berlin virtually abandoned controls on the east-west express highway to Berlin, and inter-zonal traffic sped at an unprecedented rate. The Soviet high command obviously had instructed the guards to deal only perfunctorily with cargoes and credentials.

SAILOR FREED

In Moscow, a British sailor serving a one-year sentence for hooliganism was freed today under the Soviet government's new amnesty law after serving half his term.

In Bonn, West German government sources forecast today that Moscow might soon extend its current "peace offensive" with a new note to the three Western Allies proposing talks on unifying Germany. Some Allied quarters also said they would "not be surprised" if something like this happened.

KOREA PROPOSAL

And in Korea today the Communists delivered to the United Nations command their latest proposal for ending the Korean fighting.

The UN command agreed to a meeting at Panmunjom Monday to discuss plans for exchanging sick and wounded prisoners—an article of business Gen. Mark Clark says must be disposed of before resumption of truce talks. It was Clark who made the original proposal on the prisoners. Latest developments in the Chicago Gunfight

CHICAGO (AP)—An off duty veteran policeman and an unidentified robber shot and killed each other in a blazing gun battle in a saloon early today.

The policeman, who was killed by a single bullet in his heart, was William Fuller, 49, who had stopped in Mickey's liquor store and saloon after ending his shift shortly before midnight. He was not in uniform.

The dead gunman, in his 20's was shot at least four times after he said "this is a stick-up."

Rockslide Blocks

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 50-foot long rock slide near Boston Bar, 125 miles east of here, blocked the main line of the Canadian National Railways today.

Cleanup crews expected to have the line cleared by noon.

Calmont Shows Gain

Calmont Oil rose four points to 164 in a day of tight trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

Central Leduc held at 3.80, and Estella remained unchanged at 65.

American Standard gained three cents to 23.

3-Alarm Fire On Vancouver Waterfront

VANCOUVER (CP)—

Fire swept through the 500-foot-long ice-making plant of the National Harbors Board on the waterfront here today.

A three-alarm brought firemen from many halls, and Vancouver's fireboat joined the land crews fighting the blaze.

Great clouds of smoke rolled skyward and the whole district at the foot of Campbell Avenue was enveloped in a deep haze.

The flames were confined to the ice plant and it appeared that other property was not in immediate danger. No one was reported injured.

For a time telephone lines were out, but they were quickly restored by emergency crews.

Marciano Nose Injury Postpones April Bout

CHICAGO (BUP)—The April 10th heavyweight title fight between champion Rocky Marciano and Joe Walcott in Chicago has been postponed until May 25.

The Illinois Boxing Commission granted Marciano's request for a postponement because of a nose injury he suffered in training.

Ontario Investigating Sub-Standard Cheese

Prosecutor Says Typhoid Deaths Can Result From Unpasteurized Product

OTTAWA, (CP)—A federal food inspector today testified in magistrate's court that the food and drugs division is investigating about 150 eastern Ontario cheese manufacturers and jobbers reported to be producing sub-standard Canadian cheddar cheese.

W. R. Moon, health department food and drugs inspector, revealed that the investigation is under way during testimony at the arraignment of Roland Scitote, 39-year-old Sarsfield, Ont., cheese-maker.

Scitote pleaded guilty to selling a quantity of cheese which did not meet pasteurization requirements or was not stored for the required 60 days. Magistrate Glenn Strickland fined Scitote $100 and $27 costs with an alternative of one month in jail.

George Addy, special prosecutor for the health department, said that in the past a number of deaths from typhoid fever have been directly attributed to people eating cheese from an unpasteurized source.

CORONATION REVIEW TO INCLUDE RED SHIP

MOSCOW (AP)—An authoritative diplomatic source said today the British admiralty has invited the Soviet Union to participate in the Coronation naval review and that the Russians have accepted.

The informant said the Soviet in replying advised they would send a ship to the naval review but did not specify what type.

Western diplomats interpreted this gesture as a considerable contribution to the general atmosphere of conciliation now prevailing.

RED PEACE PLAN GAINS MOMENTUM

UN Command Agrees to Monday Meeting At Panmunjom on POW Exchange

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Western leaders continued to sound words of caution, the Communists delivered to the United Nations their latest proposal for ending the Korean fighting.

The UN command agreed to a meeting at Panmunjom Monday to discuss plans for exchanging sick and wounded prisoners—an article of business Gen. Mark Clark says must be disposed of before resumption of truce talks. It was Clark who made the original proposal on the prisoners.

In Washington, officials and Western diplomats saw increasing evidence that Russia's snow-balling peace offensive is a reversal of cold-war tactics aimed at stalling the West's defense build-up and wrecking the anti-Soviet world's unity.

Some authorities say the Russians are running a risk, too. If the Western world maintains its unity it may be able to create a stability which the Soviets will find difficult to upset.

KOREA HIGHLIGHT

The spotlight remained focused on Korea. More light will be shed on the situation when the prisoner-of-war talks open Monday. If the Reds resort to their customary haggling, the Western world will have grounds for questioning their sincerity.

In addition to events in Korea these were the latest developments in the "surprise-a-day" peace offensive:

United Nations—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky, recently returned from Moscow, for the first time in seven years had no hard words for the West to put into the formal record on the UN's disarmament efforts. This approach surprised Western diplomats but they noted the Soviet move contained no indication the Russians had abandoned their own ideas on how disarmament can be achieved.

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned that the Soviet threat against the Western Allies had not diminished by one iota. In a speech at the second anniversary of SHAPE's creation, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander said Soviet Russia has increased and continues to increase its military power.

Railmen Promise to Take 'Matters in Own Hands'

NELSON, B.C. (BUP)—The men who run the trains threatened to "take matters in their own hands" today unless something is done to halt fresh rail bombings and fire raids allegedly committed by the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

Members of the International Brotherhood of Trainmen held a closed meeting with other citizens' groups in Nelson, B.C., Wednesday night, after which a spokesman said the trainmen were determined to "take matters in their own hands."

The threat appeared to be clear, although not uttered in so many words—vigilante action.

Three rail dynamitings and a $50,000 sawmill fire touched off what some observers feared was the beginning of a new Doukhobor "insurrection" timed with Premier W. A. C. Bennett's announcement of a June 9 general provincial election.

SITUATION CLOSELY WATCHED

Although Attorney General Robert Bonner, who is directly responsible for law enforcement, is remaining quiet about what steps the government is taking, Premier W. A. C. U.K. to Try Pacific Run With Oronsay

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The British-owned Orient Line will make an experimental entry into the Pacific service to Canada and the United States next year, using the 27,632-ton liner Oronsay, latest addition to its fleet, it was announced today.

The only passenger ship now on the run is the 17,486-ton Aorangi, owned by the Canadian-Australian Line. She will be withdrawn this year.

An Orient spokesman said today the Oronsay would make experimental voyages in January and May, 1954. The company will then decide whether to run a Pacific service permanently.

The Oronsay will travel from Sydney to Suva, Honolulu and Vancouver, as the Aorangi has done, and will also call at San Francisco to attract American tourists.

N.Z. Gunner Cited For Coolness in Little Gib. Action

IN KOREA (AP)—Commonwealth division headquarters announced today the award of the Military Medal to Gunner W. L. Clark of the Royal New Zealand Artillery Regiment for valor in a battle at Little Gibraltar March 17.

Clark was cited for "coolness and courage of the highest order." He was credited with evacuating 31 American casualties by making 10 jeep trips forward voluntarily and under heavy Red artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire. On each trip, the citation said, Clark brought forward much needed supplies and ammunition.

Fairweather Appeal To Be Heard Here

VANCOUVER (CP)—The appeal of Albert Fairweather, convicted of manslaughter in the stabbing death of Raymond Boyce near Duncan, has been transferred to the Victoria sitting of the appeal court opening April 14.

Fairweather, first convicted of murder and sentenced to death, won a new trial at which he was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to 10 years in prison. He then appealed the manslaughter sentence.

Mau Mau Terror Raid Starts Major Battle in Kenya; 21 Natives Killed

NAIROBI (Reuters)—Government forces killed 21 Mau Mau terrorists in a second major battle Wednesday night in the current outbreak of open fighting.

The battle occurred in the same bushland area just north of here where at least 24 terrorists were slain and 36 captured two nights ago.

Police reported that in Wednesday night's outbreak, the terrorists burned down a number of huts housing the African home guard on the Kiambu reserve and waited with long knives—pangas—to cut down their victims.

Home guard casualties were not announced.

The Mau burnings represented the same device used by the terrorists last week when they smoked out and massacred more than 100 African men, women and children.

This outrage, committed in the same uplands area of the Kiambu reserve, touched off the largest battle since the British colonial government declared a state of emergency last October. British troops combined with native forces today in combing the district for the terrorist bands.

Four terrorists were shot dead when they tried to escape today after offering to lead security forces to the hideout of Dedan Kimathi, Kenya's No. 1 terrorist leader.

A few miles away, a Mau Mau agent who administered the cult's anti-white oaths was shot and killed. Another terrorist who hid in a chicken house of a white settler's farm also was killed.

Two Mau Mau terrorists were sentenced to be hanged today for murdering a white farmer in a raid last November.

NO PAPER GOOD FRIDAY; WEEKEND FEATURES EASTER

Tomorrow, Good Friday, will be observed as a holiday by the Times staff and there will be no regular issue of the paper. The next editions will be on Saturday, which will include the Easter issue of Weekend Picture Magazine. It features an article on the amazing coloring of Easter eggs by Ukrainians, an art they have brought to Canada.

Another outstanding feature in Weekend is a series of animal pictures, taken by famed photographer Nicholas Morant in the Canadian Rockies.
